LETTER FROM SOLDIER

Jim Steele Writes Back Here to His "Home Folks."

A Submarine Was Sighted But a Shot From One of Our Vessels Settled the Undersea Boat.

France, November 24, 1918.

Dear Dad—No doubt you have read in papers long before you receive this letters where every soldier on this day in France is urged to write his father and tell him all the news for Xmas.

Well, as I have not by any means forgotten you, and the censors, I don't think are as particular as they used to be, I will try and tell you a few of the things that have interested me most since I left U. S. A.

The first thing of interest I think was my feelings when the transport left New York harbor. I thought of many things and watched it as long as my eyes could see, and the next time I saw land was when we came close to the Canadian shore and finally landed in Halifax for a time. There we could see the destruction of the city caused by that great explosion last fall.

Of course, when we left there we finally left America for the last time, and I can't say that I enjoyed crossing the Atlantic, only for what I could see of a mighty iceberg, probably near the place where the Titanic went down and the battle with the U boats.

It was about 3:30 p. m. when we were least expecting submarines that the guns began to fire and shrapnel and depth bombs began to burst. Also the shrill whistle of the mighty ships blew twelve long blasts (that means immediate danger), also the red flag was run up so every thing went to show that there was no time for fooling so we all beat it to our life boats with our life belts tied fast waiting for the command to be lowered to the water if our ship was struck.

Just while we were standing anxiously waiting there appeared a submarine not 100 yards from the bow of our ship. The sub. was just beneath the water when a shell caused an explosion in that vicinity, no doubt sending our enemies to their watery grave. Well, after about one half hour of silence we were again dismissed to discuss our escape for the rest of the voyage. One good thing we were heavily convoyed, so the U boats were fighting a city on the sea instead of one little ship.

We next landed in England and I think witnessed some of the most beautiful country in the world. Of course, we were not there very long until we were again on the water crossing the English Channel. That was a short trip and we awoke the next morning and was ordered to an American or rather an English rest camp close to the front, here we remained a few days and just our luck they had an air raid the night before we arrived which caused some excitement and the lives of a few. Of course, every thing was quiet while we were there except the roar of the big guns a few miles away. We had trenches to get into during our stay there if it was necessary during a raid. Of course we wouldn't of lost any time getting in them either, but to be sure of it a friend of mine got up in the night and tried making good time so if anything happened he would be in practice and on to his job.

Well, ofcourse, our next trip was in these little old French cars of which you hear so much about. One of our felllows declare if the French sign over the doors was translated in English it would read something like this: "Load not to exceed 40 men or 8 horses.

Well, any way, we got through a great many towns and finally landed in the world's largest "aviation instruction center" and about 150 miles south of Paris. Of coure, we don't see much here only what I have mentioned probably several times before.

Well, as this pen is very bad and I have a crowded place to try and write I will ask you to excuse me for this time.

I hope these lines find you all well and enjoying a happy Xmas, I remain as ever, Your son. J. E. S.

IN THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS

Writer Lets Memory Go Back to Times When Fourth of July Was "Fittingly" Celebrated.

On the third of July—a quarter century ago—mother said we might sleep in the barn. We called it sleep—though that wasn't the proper word. We lay in the straw and whispered—and perspired—and counted our firecrackers. We'd bought 'em with the proceeds of the sale of old iron and rubber. Iron was a half-cent a pound—rubber was two cents a pound. We arose and sneaked out of the hay—literally—an hour before midnight. We met on the village green. The 1860 cannon was there—being loaded. Two of us were assigned to each church and schoolhouse. We broke into those sacred edifices—they were scary places at midnight—and stood by the bell ropes. The cannon went off at twelve—and we started ringing. All the adults in town tossed and swore till dawn—for we spelled one another, and the joyous peal was not interrupted. The village selectmen said they would call a meeting on the fifth and take action to bring the perpetrators of this high-handed outrage to justice. But they never did.

It's all over, now. Yesterday we slept later than usual. Everything was so quiet!—Exchange.

Job's lot in life was really nice,
Though at the idea you may scoff:
He never had to pay for ice,
Or shoo the bill collector off.
Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Job's lot was not the worst by far,
Don't laugh at me in ribald scorn—
He never tried to start his car,
Upon a frosty winter morn.
—Ohio Motorist.

Job's lot was not the hardest one
Of men, or women, born to rule,
For now and then he had some fun
And missed the curse of teaching school.

A Tribute.

This poem was sent to Judge Todd Galloway, of Columbus, who is doing Y. M. C. A. work in France just before he was to deliver the memorial address over the graves of some of our boys in Nancy in Lorraine. He recited this toast with American officers on one side and French on the other, each holding their flags and all standing at attention. While the band played the "Star Spangled Banner" and "The Marselllaise" Judge Galloway said it was one of the most impressive scenes he had ever experience when he recited a toast given by a Daughter of the Confederacy at a Georgia State Convention is as follows:

Here's to the blue of the wind-swept North,
As we meet on the fields of France;
May the spirit of Grant be with us all
As the sons of the North advance.

And here's to the gray of the sun-kissed South,
As we meet on the fields of France;
May the spirit of Lee be with us all,
As the sons of the South advance.

And here's to the blue and the gray of us all,
As we met on the fields of France;
May the spirit of God be with us all.
As the sons of the flag advance.

ON THE "LEVIATHIAN"

Everett Drennan, Hillsboro Boy, Tells of His Experiences.

Christmas Would Have Been a Slim Affair If It Hadn't Been Looked After By Jackies.

1-3-1919

Everett Drennan U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Drennan, is a Guardsman on the Leviathan, once a German ship and one ofthe hosts at the wonderful Xmas entertainment for dependent New York children. The following description is from the Commercial Tribune, of Dec. 27, 1918:

New York, Dec. 25—Orphaned children of New York City and Hoboken, little folks at whose homes financial circumstances made Christmas a slim affair and 'newsies' from the Hoboken streets and New Jersey terminals, numbering in all more than 1,200 were the guests today at a real Christmas party held on board the monster American steamship Leviathan.

The hosts of the occasion were the fifteen hundred or more sailors who make up the operating personnel of the ship. The expense was borne by them, and it was all planned and arranged for during the liner's recent voyage home with 8,500 American soldiers and sailors.

This reception was the first of a public nature held on the ship since the flag of Germany was lowered on the 52,000 ton vessel one year ago last April and her Teutonic name, Vaterland, changed to the one she now holds.

The children were from various orphan asylums with no restriction as to color or religion. Automobiles driven by army and navy transport men and women picked up the youngsters at the doors of the institutions and transported them to the ship—taking them home again after they had been bounteously supplied with good things to eat and with gifts.

Supplementing the children from the various orphanages, the sailors sought out of private homes where sickness and misfortune had made itself felt this year and where the Christmas that children look forward to did not dawn. These little persons were brought to the ship and returned by the blue-jackets as their personal charge.

When all the anticipated guests were on hand it was found there were extra tables and plates with no one in front of them. Once more the sailors sallied forth to the streets and a sufficient number of small news boys and boot blacks were picked up around the New Jersey railroad and ferry terminals to fill out the vacancies.

The dinner was first on the program. It was served in the great hall, which was formerly the first-class dining saloon of the giant liner. Sailors' mess tables were all grouped around a large Chrsitmas tree set in the center of the saloon. Several hundred women from the home service and canteen section of the Red Cross, volunteers from the various orphan homes and relatives of the ship's officers, and men, among whom was Mrs. Phelps, wife of the Captain, assisted the sailors in serving the guests.

Each guest had an attendant—if the little hands could not manipulate the man-size knives and forks a pair of blue-sleeved arms reached over and [illegible] cutting for him, accompanied [illegible]pressions as "Go to it, son. [illegible]r head off, there's plenty [illegible]e." And there was plenty. The 200 cooks and cooks' assistants on the Leviathan had been working for the thirty-six hours preparing the feast.

There was 1,200 pounds of turkey, with proportionate quantities of oyster dressing, cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes, and other side dishes, and a dray load of apple pies and enough ice cream to feed a regiment. There were oranges, apples, bananas and cakes. During the dinner the great ship's organ pealed out airs of popular songs.

After the dinner Santa Claus appeared in the disguised person of Chief Electrician Costello. A blast from a bugle announced the arrival of his launch alongside. The guard of honor as drawn up and he was "piped over the side" in regulation naval style and escorted to the dining hall, with all the deference that would be paidto avisiting Admiral.

Santa Claus' task was cut out for

Obituary.

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the Faith. Henceforth, there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing."

How beautifully fitting are these words of the aged apostle to the life of the subject of this Memoir—Mrs. Eliza Jane Stroup. She was the daughter of Peter and Sarah Roush, and came into their home August 26, 1849, and journeyed with us here for a period of almost three score years and ten, when on Jan. 24, 1919, the Saviour, knowing her life work and long suffering, compassionately said "It is enough, come up higher."

October 8th, 1869, she was united in marriage with Joseph Stroup, who, now in his declining years, is left to travel the remainder of life's journey, without the counsel and tender ministrations of a loving wife and companion of almost half a century. To them were given five children, four daughters and one son. Unto Laura, ere time could mar her purity the blessed Master said, "Suffer the little children and forbid them not to come unto Me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven," and into that fairer clime she was transplanted. The remaining children, Mrs. Minnie Briggs, Mrs. Mollie Brulport, Mrs. Inez Shith and son, Philip, were permitted to minister unto her during the years of declining health.

Other than her companion and children to mourn their loss are two dear grandsons, John Russell Briggs and Floyd Stroup, who are old enough to realize the loss of an affectionate grandmother, her brother, Ellis Roush, of Springfield, Ohio, to whom our sympathy goes out, he being the last of the happy home in which they spent their childhood days. Also, two nieces, Mrs. Jennie Barnes Roush and Mrs. Mary Roush Drake, and four nephews, Peter, William, Henry and Charles Roush. For several years she has been in failing health but during her last illness she suffered intensely and only her increasing faith in her Heavenly Father and the tender ministrations of loved ones made her sufferings bearable. So appreciative was the suffering mother, of the lovely and tender, the constant and patient watch-care over her of her youngest and faithful daughter, Inez, during the long, anxious vigils, and times of suffering, that when duty called her from the room but for a moment, to the loving mother it were as though the sun had been eclipsed. During the ministry of Rev. Thomas Pinkerton at the Christian Church at Fairview while young in years, she confessed her faith in the Master, and in His saving power to all who would put their trust in Him.

During the dark days of adversity and disappointments as well as during the sunshine of prosperity and happiness that trust and faith never wavered but ever and always grew brighter and stronger as day by day she approached the valley of the shadod of death.

The sweet content of her soul, said to the world, "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I shall fear no evil, for Thou art with me, Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me." Of her splendid Christian life we need not speak. Her faithful attendance at all church services, her deep interest manifested in all church organizations, her kindly deeds of love and mercy toward all mankind, have set in motion upon the great sea of life an influence for righteousness which shall become wider and broader until it reaches the eternal shores. A blessed heritage to her loved ones, to the world. And methinks the message she would have linger longest in the hearts of those she loved, is so beautifully expressed by the poet—

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning at the bar,
When I put out to sea.

"But such a tide, as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep,
Turns again home.

"Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark,
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark.

For tho' from out our bourne of Time and Place,
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the Bar."

In Memoriam.

Tarry Clifford Shaffer, youngest son of J. M. and Leah Shaffer, was given to them November 25, 1900, left the old home for a new, January 2, 1919, aged 18 years, 1 month and 7 days old. He united with the Reform Church at Danville, Ohio, several years ago and remained faithful to the end.

He was afflicted from boyhood but did not complain. The care of a loving mother was left largely to him, having returned to the old home to begin life anew when the Death Angel called and Clifford had to go. We do not wonder when the aged is called, but why one so young, so active in this life should be called is beyond our comprehension. We cannot fathom the deep things of God, but after while when we are called we may be able to know.

He leaves a loving mother, four brothers and a host of relatives to mourn. He lay down his life at the feet of the Savior to take it up at the great white throne. Let us not mourn as those who have no hope, but so live that when called there will be a grand reunion of the family in a home brighter and better than this, where no tears shed, no sad good byes are spoken.

Dear Mrs. Burnett—Tonight finds me O.K. within 3 miles of the German border. I have been quite busy since I wrote to you last. We just came up to the front the night before the armistice started. We were attached to the 32nd Division at that time. The 32nd was one of the divisions chosen to go to or follow the Rhine. We are about half the way now. I guess we had about 140 miles to go. We travel in the day time so we get to see quite a lot of country on the way. We are going to have a day or two rest here. We travelled through the provisces of Luxemberg. The people treated us fine. We will be with the 32nd Division from now on, so you can see where the 32nd is after this. There is some talk of the 32nd being the first to go home. I will write you a letter later. I am back with my own battery now.

FROM OUR SOLDIER BOYS

1-10-1919

October 20, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Burnett—Somewhere in France on the front. I am well and getting along O. K. It is raining some tonight, but I am in a dugout watching the telephone. I am central for two hours tonight. I have been with the telephone men of headquarters company of this regiment ever since I have been at the front. Our regiment has been doing good work at the front so far. I haven't received any letter from you for a month. I cannot write you very often while I am at the front. The Yankies have been going after the Dutch lately, driving them out of their dugouts that they have been in for 2 or 3 years. I have been in lots of their dugouts. They have them fixed up in great shape to live in. Some of them even have electric lights in them. I guess they expected to live in them the duration of the war, but they were glad to leave them when the Yanks came "over the top" after them. Their dugouts and trenches make good places for us to go when the Dutch are shelling us. We also find lots of Dutch souvenirs in the dugouts which we are allowed to keep I have been in gas 3 or 4 times, but our gas masks are proof against it. They have been sending over some sneezing gas that keeps a fellow sneezing and smarts the eyes. We don't use the mask very often for that kind.

The front is not a very pleasant place to be. We see nothing but towns in ruins and barbed wire and trenches in the fields. It will take France years to build itself up again. U. S. has quite a bunch of airplanes over here. One day there were over 200 in the air at one time. They looked like a bunch of birds in the air. I guess they were on their way to bomb the Germans. I have not been very close to any place that the Dutch has bombed yet. We have to Interesting Letters From Some of the Lads, "Over There".

Thomas Henley Tells of a Number of the Battles In Which the Rainbow Division Took Part—Other Letters.

Ripweiler, Luxembourg,
November 29, 1918.

Miss Elizabeth Henley, Hillsboro, O.

Dear Sister—Received several letters from you, but have not had much time to answer them.

We landed in this place about a week ago, but do not know how long a stay it will be. Do not think it will be long as I heard that we will sail for the States before long.

This is a beautiful country. More so, than the country of France, I think. Of course, it has not been torn up like most of France and of course France has gone through the worst of the war.

I see by the papers that you have signed up with Uncle Sam for nursing. Well, I think that now there will not be so much nursing to do or care for any but the ones already wounded.

Yesterday was Thanksgiving and I would have liked being home, although we had a very nice time here. All we could drink and eat. We had plenty of pork, but no turkey for dinner.

Our last battle was the Argonne Forests operations that was the ending of the war.

We were in it from Oct. 6, to Nov. 11, 1918. The 37th Division was there a few days at the starting. I met Lient. Thomas as we were going in. It was their first battle and I do not know whether it was the last for them or not as I have not heard from them.

Our regiment was in the battle that stopped the Huns in July and one of them that ended it at Sedan. This place the French lost in 1871 it being taken by the Germans.

Captain Baker, our captain, led our company, with the French, into the city. Our company, led by our captain, was the only company of the regiment going in. Captain Baker was picked by the French to enter the city.

Did mother receive the allotment I made out for her? She looks fine in the picture. Little I thought the last time I saw her that she would ever be so stout again as her picture looks.

Well, sis, I will close and I hope at Christmas that we will eat turkey dinner together. Give my best to all the boys and all the folks at home.

Your brother, Thos. Henley.

The Last Advance.

By Captain W. Kerr Rainsford.

Captain Rainsford of the 307th Infantry regiment, after recovering from a wound received in an earlier battle went into the Argonne offensive and was shot four times. While recovering in the American Base Hospital at Bordeaux, he wrote these verses. They were first published in The Outlook.

We have shed our blood with the English blood;
We have bled with bleeding France.
We have joined our steel in the last appeal
At the red tribunal of Chance,
Where shouldeer to shoulder the nations stand
For the glorious last advance.

Shoulder to shoulder and heart to heart,
Bound with a blood-red chain,
In the meadows whereFate has danced with Hate
In the drip of a blood-red rain;
In the trampled meadows where Death has reaped,
Has sown—and has reaped again;
Brothers in pain and sick fatigue
And in purpose, that recks not pain.

We have buried our dead on a thousand hills,
And thousands unburied lie,
In battered village and shattered wood,
Agape at the drenching sky,
Where they poured their blood in the trampled mud
As a witness to God on high—
As the last full price of sacrifice
For that which shall never die.

But the ghosts of the twice-fought fields shall rise,
At the charging battalion's shout;
Shall swirl in the smoke of the last barrage
Over bayonet fight and rout—
Shall sing in the scream of passing shell
As we sweep in the last redoubt.

For the hour has struck, and the kingdoms rock
On the last red verge of War—
Our countless dead in the wind o'erhead
At the final barrier—
One swift-drawn breath in the wind of death,
And the Merciful Gates before,
Where Freedom stands with outspread hands
Forever and evermore.

INTERESTING RELIC

Of Pioneer Days Discovered In Gazette Office.

DEPOSITION OF SIMON KENTON

The Famous Indian Fighter and the Companion Of Daniel Boone Unearthed In Our Files.

Bearing the date of June 24, 1825, and recording a happening during an Indian hunt in the year 1791, a deposition of the famous Indian Fighter, Scout and Pioneer, Simon Kenton, has just been discovered in the files of the Gazette Office.

The deposition was apparently taken for introduction as evidence in a suit pending in the Circuit Court of the 7th District, and was made at the Logan County home of the famous pioneer.

The ancient document is in a state of reasonably good preservation and records some most interesting happenings. The verbage is also unique, being the old time style. Realizing that this will be of great interest to Gazette readers, we are reproducing the deposition exactly as it is written, with the single exception that we have omitted the names of the parties to the suit, as follows:

"The State of Ohio, Logan County, ss: The deposition of Simon Kenton, aged (blurred and faded) years, and woh is very infirm in body, taken before me (impossible to make out) a justive of the peace in and for said county, at the home of said Kenton, on Friday the twenty-fourth day of June, 1825, between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M.

Agreeably to the enclosed notice to be read in evidence in a case pending and undetermined in the Circuit Court of the U. S. for the 7th Circuit and district of Ohio wherein the (omitted by editor) and (omitted by editor) are defendents in ejectment.

The said deponent being first duly sworn saith that in the month of May 791, (changed by interlining to "in the Spring of the year") this deponent with between sixty and eighty men under his command, part footmen and part horsemen, started from Lymestone (now called Maysville) Kentucky, in order to find the Indian camp on a creek that is now called Anderson's Fork, and whence Timothy Downing, a citizen of Lymestone had been a prisoner among the Indians and who had there killed an Indian and made his escape to that settlement in Kentucky; which settlement, or the Three Islands in the Ohio River, was the nearest settlement of white people to the Indian Camp.

That this deponent with his company, on their route passed through what is now called Highland, County, Ohio, and crossed a south branch of Paint Creek, now called Rocky Fork, but which had not then acquired a name, and encamped all night near said creek, where fires were made and a great deal of sign of such encampment left, and there being upwards of fifty horsemen the signs of the encampment were so plain that they must have remained for years. The season being wet and the ground soft and the horsemen marching in single file, the company made a considerable trace or path, which was known among hunters and surveyors for many years as "Kenton's Trace," and must have been plain to be seen, particularily on hillsides for some years, and the trace made by Kenton's men when they went to where Downing had killed the Indian.

That the company only encamped one night on their route on any of the Waters of Paint Creek and that encampment might have been easily found by following the traces aforesaid which must have been so visible for years that there could have been no difficulty in knowing it or following it. This encampment was made on land now claimed by (omitted by editor) one of the defendents and was the place called for in the entry of said land which was made for said (omitted by editor) that same year, and was on the same spot this day shown to (omitted by editor) and has been seen by me in different years.

Deponent further states that Lymestone was the nearest settlement of white people to said encampment made by deponents company in 1791, That deponents company were citizens of that neighborhood, of Lymestone and now Mason County, principally, and the trace and camp aforesaid and the camp where Downing killed the Indian were matters notorious in that whole country and almost any man in that neighborhood could have directed even a stranger who was at all a good woodman, to the land the camp was on, (the latter sentence changed to read as follows) The Indian Camp where Downing killed the Indian was a large encampment and was called a winter encampment of the Indians and was notorious and was plain to be seen for years afterward.

The deponent is positive that the Rocky Fork of Paint Creek, or the trace called for in the entry was notorious among the locators of land in the Virginia Military district between the Scioto and little Miami rivers at the date of the entry. Deponent is convinced of this fact because deponent was at County Recorder Anderson's office when the entry was made and Gen. A. Massie, the principal locator then in said district being consulted as to the wording of that entry—wrote the entry and called for the camp and the trace as matters of public notoriety.

This deponent has since the entry aforesaid, in the year 1800, been at the said camp and went to it without any difficulty of finding it. The camp and trace were at that time plain to be seen and deponent feels confident that any surveyor or woodsman with————entry in his hand could have found the camp called for without any other guide.

The country was at that time almost wholly unexplored and no other trace or path in that part of the country made by horsemen, so that there could be no mistake as to the trace.

Deponent was also in 1811 and in 1818 at the place where this camp was made as called for in this———— entry, and konws the place well to be the same identical camp and now in the pessession of the said———— for whom a 500 acre entry of land was made, including the said camp in the center.

Signed (very faint and blurred)

I certify that the foregoing deposition was taken agreeably to the Captain—was written by myself and subscribed by the deponent after having been sworn.

Given under my hand and seal this 24th day of June, 1825.

Signed (illegible) J. P.

Writes From Zittag, Luxemburg About His Experiences and Describes The Big March To The Rhine.

Private Roy W. Roush of the Headquarters Company, 107 U. S. Engineers wrote a "Father's Day" lettter on Nov. 24th to his father, Mr. Chas. A. Roush of this vicinity. Mr. Roush has granted the Gazette the privelege of reproducing the letter as follows:

"Dear Dad, Today is supposed to be "Father's Day" and they told us that we could write and tell anything and everything, so I will try and relate a few things for you. I haven't had a chance to write to anyone for more than a month, nor have I received a single piece of mail during that time.

We have been hiking for seven days straight and making about 15 miles per day. One day we went just 20 miles. As you probably know, we are on the big march on the Rhine river, following up the Germans and keeping just at their heels all of the time. There is a lot of formality about this march. It is almost like a dress parade. We have the band together and have been carrying our instruments on the march and leading the regiment. I am standing it pretty well but my feet get awfully sore at night. We always try to stop in a town so we can sleep in some building, for the nights are very cold. It has been fine weather so far and the roads are all very good.

We were in Anchresville when the Armistice was signed and left there soon after. That is near Dun in France. One day we were in three countries, France, Belgium and Luxemburg.

We are now about ten miles from the border of Luxemburg and Germany, and about 30 miles northeast of the city of Luxemburg.

The people in the little Belgium towns were glad to see us come through. They had the towns decorated in fine shape. The people here all speak German so we have to talk German. We buy milk and apples when they have them but they are pretty scarce.

I haven't had a chance to see Ulric yet, but expect he is on the march someplace if he is still with the 3rd Division. I expect you would like to know some of the places in which I have been.

Well, we we first came here we put in five months before going to the front, building barracks, hospitals, stables, etc., back of the battle zone. That was mostly near Chateau Villiar near Chaumont. We then went to the front in Alsace where it was pretty quiet. After staying there a month we went and helped in the Chauteau Thierry drive and it was war all the time after that. We went from there to the north of Soissons and from there to the heavy fighting on the Argonne front where we broke the famous Hindenburg Line. We were in that sector when the armistice was signed. We were in some pretty hot places and had some close shaves but I haven't had an accident or anything yet. You can just bet I am mighty thankful, too.

I guess we have about ten more days of hiking before we get to the Rhine, and I surely wish it was over. I hope we won't be there long until we can come home. If it is not too long before peace is signed, we might be home by Christmas. I surely hope so.

I haven't felt like picking up many souvenirs for they are so heavy to carry.

Have an extra blanket now, and while its a lot heavier in my pack it feels good at night.

We passed a bunch of German Aviators camps where there were lots of souvenirs, but I didn't feel like carrying them on a hike like this.

Saw Williard Wilson the other day but did not get to talk to him.

Haven't time to write any more just now.You can distribute the news around for I can't write to every one for a while.

Hope I will be home to tell you about it pretty soon.*Your son,

Roy W. Roush.

"HOME COMING"

Song Written By Rev. G. H. Harper, of Belfast. Dedicated To Returning Boys.

The following excellent verse was composed by Rev. G. H. Harper, of the Belfast Presbyterian Church, and dedicated to the Home Coming Boys. These words have been set to the tune of "Just Before The Battle, Mother," and have been received with acclaim by those who have so far been priveleged to listen to them.

Home Coming

Listen now the boys are coming,
Coming home to U. S. A.
Then we'll all be happy mother
Happy then through endless day.
Hear their tread upon the gang plank,
Hear their farewell once for aye
To that fair land of France, beloved,
May the Father's blessing be.

Chorus

Boistrous roll the waves of ocean,
Rocked upon the briney deep,
But, what care they for their devotion,
To the homeland never sleeps.
See the flags they near the harbor,
Hear their music o'er the wave,
For they rejoice to see the homeland,
Native land of true and brave.
Now the mothers haste to meet them,
Now proud fathers hearts rejoice,
And all the sons and daughters with them
Lift aloud, Hurrah The Boys.

Chorus

Now the din of war is over,
And our boys are home again
May all nations hear the anthem
"Peace on earth, good will to men."

THE SHEEP-SHEARER'S LAMENT.

(Strickland Gillilan.)

You smell to me, you darned old stinking ewe,
Exactly as these other woolies do.
I can't detect the slightest little diff
Between you and others—sniff for sniff
You sheep are all the same. But some fool lamb
Whose judgment in my world ain't worth a damn,
Can tell you in the dark from all the others
In this big gang of freshly-barbered mothers!
It isn't that I care about your smell
Or that it would advantage me to tell
One sheep from all the rest in this big herd.
But, man to sheep, I give my honest word
It gravels me to know that in one way,
In what they've labeled "this enlightened day,"
Your silly lamb, as anyone can see,
Is that much more intelligent than me!

Obituary.

Charlie Franklin Fittro, son of John A. and Rachel A. Fittro, was born May 19, 1870, and died March 26, 1919, aged 48 years, 10 months and 7 days. He was married to Byrdie E. Ashmore December 19, 1895. 7 children were born to this union, two sons and five daughters. Burr F.; Verda A.; Louie R.; Leone G.; Margene E.; Harold P. and Martha E. One grand-child, Stanley E. Wilkin and one daughter, Louie, died in infancy.

He leaves one sister, one twin brother, two half-brothers, four half-sisters and a host of friends to mourn the loss of a devoted husband, a loving father, a dear brother, a kind friend and neighbor.

He was very patient during his three months illness, but hoped to get well and to be with his family and friends, but when he found he could not, he was not afraid to go, for he said to those around him, sing, instead of cry, and repeated "Jesus lover of my soul, let me to thy Bosom fly." His sister asked him if he felt that way, he said "yes I do." Oh I have changed and I want you too.

"For here unto were ye called; because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example, that ye should follow his steps."

DEATH OF GEO. F. BROUS

Former Resident Died At Lamar, Missouri, March 6. Left Here About Thirty-five Years Ago.

The death of George F. Brous, of Lamar, Mo., a former Hillsboro resident, occurred on March 6th, at his home near that village. The following item is clipped from the current issue of the Cass County (Mo.) Democart. Mr. Brous was well known to many of our older residents.

George F. Brous, a brother of Carey A. and S. L. Brous and Mrs. W. W. (Emma) Duncan, all of Harrisonville, and community, died Thursday, March 6, 1919, at 5 o'clock in the evening, west of Lamar, Barton County, Missouri, after a brief illness, resulting from the infirmities of his advanced age of almost 74 years.

The deceased, who was the eldest child of a family of 15 children—eight sons and seven daughters—was born July 1, 1845, near Hillsboro, Ohio. At the age of about 18 years, Mr. Brous took up the profession of school teaching, following it for more than 40 years, both summer and winter.

He was married to Miss Hannah Prine in 1866, and to this union nine children were born, two of whom preceded their father to the Better World. All of the children now have families, with the exception of L. E., the eldest son, and from their marraiges there are 14 grand-children. Aside from B. C. Brous, who lives in Western Nesbraska, all of the children were in attendance at the funeral of their father. The deceased is also survived by six brothers and three sisters.

George F. Brous and his family came to Missouri in March 1871, and settled in the Eight Mile community near the old Brous homestead, remaining there until 1875—"Grasshopper Year"—during which time he was engaged in teaching school and farming. They then moved to Barton County, Missouri, and settled on the farm where he died.

Mr. and Mrs. Brous, the latter of whom is still living, raised a large family of children, to all of whom they gave splendid educations. The eldest son, L. E. Brous, served as County School Commissioner of Barton County, Missouri, for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Carey A. Brous and Mrs. W. W. Duncan, of Harrisonville, went to Barton County last Friday morning, remaining until Sunday night. The funeral services were held at the family home Sunday, Mar. 9, and the body was laid to rest in the village cemetery at Oakland, four miles north of the Brous home.

TRIBUTE TO JACOB SCHILLEY

By the death of Jacob Schilley May 31, 1919 at the ripe age of almost eighty-five years, Hillsboro lost one of its most highly respected broad minded well informed and useful citizens. Mr. Schilley was a devout Christian, a helpful member of the St. Mary's Episcopal Church and a vestryman for over forty years.

In August 1915 he was stricken with paralysis and was confined to his home practically all of the time till his death.

He was graciously blessed by having his mental faculties to the last and when he could not speak was able to signal answers to all questions of his loved and devoted family. With his studious and discriminating mind no greater boon could have been his than being able to read and keep posted on all public matters of state and national character as well as in local affairs. He followed closely the movement of the World War and showed a keen insight of conditions and that the certain outcome of the conflict would be world betterment. One of the best historians in these parts he studied present day questions by the light of past events and it was a great benefit to listen to his views.

Through his vigorous years he read for hours each night, keeping his stand with light and books by his bed and was never too tired to read.

Mr. Schilley was born in Baden, Germany, Oct 9., 1834, and left there for America in his seventeenth year. After a short time in the Eastern states he came to Cincinnati and to Hillsboro in 1852. He was naturalized at the earliest possible period and made as true an American as ever lived. April 4, 1858 he married Henrietta Schwartz who was born in Schwartzburg, Germany. With the exception of about three years they lived in Hillsboro and in the same house. He served in the Civil war leaving his wife and three little ones to do what he believed to be his higher duty.

Of the nine children given to this excellent couple, four are left to comfort the bereaved wife and mother. Albert, Charles and Miss Anna live in the home and Mrs. Ed Moore in Toledo. Miss Anna was his constant nurse leaving her position with Feibel Bros., and devoting her time to home duties. All were with him at the last and have a rich heritage in being the wife and children of such a man.

A few years ago he retired from business after over fifty years as a shoe merchant in Hillsboro. His store was a meeting place for a number of well known citizens and his reminiscences were interesting as told of this coterie—Madison and William Trimble, Henry Thompson, W. O. Collins and John L. Hughes, as he felt that the time of their meeting again drew near.

He was a valued member of the I. O. O. F. for over 63 years, also of the G. A. R. Both fraternities taking part in his funeral sevices at the St. Mary's Episcopal Church, conducted by the Rector, Rev. Louis E. Durr.

Obituary.

Edith Edna Tice Yochum, daughter of Isaac A. and Georgia Tice, was born near Sabina, Clinton county, Ohio, May. 10, 1893, and died at her home near Bridges, Ohio, March 2. 1919, aged twenty-five years, nine months and twenty-three days.

When but a babe, Edith, with her parents moved to Highland county, residing first near Highland, later in the vicinity of Mowrystown, where she recived her high school education. Her beautiful character was recognized here in school as it has been ever since and her friends were many and lasting.

On the 12th day of August, 1911, she was united in marriage to Clarence Yochum, a friend and lover from childhood days. To this union was born one little girl, Beulah, aged six.

Early in life she united with the Christian Church at Buford, Ohio and was until her death a loyal member of that church.

So, a beautiful life is ended, the home is without the wife and mother, family and friends are griefstricken: but let us be brave, for we are not left as those who have no hope, as those who are comportless, for we look confidently to the future and to the immeasurable joy of the reunion which the future holds for us.

Obituary.

Charles Harvey was born near New Vienna, February 24, 1888, and departed this life March 11, 1919, aged 32 years and nine months. He united with the U. B. Church at Mowrsytown in 1905, and was a faithful Christian, doing the Lord's will wherever he went. His mother preceded him to the better land while Charles was quite young. He never had a mother's care and protection through life, but was left to the hospitality of his friends. He married Bessie Morris in 1911,at Hillsboro and to this union was born one child.

He was a faithful, loving father and a good citizen and will be missed among his host of friends. He leaves to mourn the loss a loving wife, Mrs. Bessie Harvey, and one daughter, Leyondus, residing at Winchester, a father, Frank Harvey, near Hillsboro, and three brother, Alvin, Leslie and Roy Harvey, near Mowrystown, two sister, Lida and Myrtie, near Hillsboro. One brother and two sisters have preceded him to that better land.

Memoir.

Mary Lou, eldest daughter, of S. A. and Mahala Baskin Weaver, was born June 18, 1866, and died March 2, 1919, aged fifty-two years. On August 15, 1886, she was united in marriage to James H. Williams, who preceded her in death April 9, 1914. Of this union five children were born viz. Nellie, the wife of Charles Secrest, of Blanchester, Ohio, Jas. Edgar, Charles Addison and Margaret, at home, one daughter, Lucille, dying in infancy.

In girlhood she united with the Methodist Church and lived a Christian life until her death, which came suddenly while quietly sitting in her chair, surrounded by the children, who had long been her faithful attendants.

The greater part of her life had been filled with suffering, but she bore her affictions with a fortitude which few possess. The hand that smoothed the brow and wiped away the tear is crossed in death.

You who traveled the pathway of married life with a kind and patient husband and father over hills of adversity and through the valleys of happiness, today plucking a flower, tomorrow a thorn, but always the same kind, noble, generous mother, our friend and defender, always our confidant, the one to whom we could always go and find a ilstening ear to our petitions, is no more; yet we do not mourn as those without hope, for we know that when dark clouds of adversity come the spirit of mother will be near us to guide our footsteps and lead us in a better life.

Vesta V. McLaren, daughter of Wallace and Ettie Selph McLaren, was born May 13, 1890, and passed away March 8, 1919, aged 28 years, 9 months and 26 days.

On the 11th day of June 1912, she was married to Alva Easter. They did not leave the parental home and two little girls, Rowena and Roberta came to gladden their hearts and brigthen this home.

Vesta was reared an only child an older sister, Una Eleanor, having died in infancy. In her childhood her every expressed wish was gratified; but with all her pleasures and advantages she remained unspoiled, was always generous—no toy being too precious to be loaned, no treasure too valuable to be shared with her playmates.

She was talented and accomplished. In her mature years, her home and family were the center of all her interests and she was untiring in her ministrations for the pleasure adn comfort of each member of the household, the sometime guest or the stranger within their gates.

She was the comfort and counselor of her father and mother, the true companion and helpmate of her husband and the patient, loving guardian of her little ones.

But a short while ago, this happy family was planning for the future and in all her plans, her's was the part of unselfish service and devotion.

During her brief illness, nothing was left undone to hasten her recovery, but on Saturday morning the Death Angel came and took her to be with him who said, "I am the Resurrection and the Life."

"LITTLE FLAG ON OUR HOUSE."

The little flag on our house
Is floating all the day
Beside the great big Stars and Stripes;
You can almost hear it say
To all the folks in our street,
As the breezes make it dance:
"Look up and see my own blue star—
We've got a boy in France!"

The little flag on our house,
It floats sometimes at night,
And you can see it way up there
When the street lamp shines just right.
And sometimes, 'long toward morning,
When the cop comes by, perchance
It signals with its one blue star,
"We've got a boy in France!"

The little flag on our house
Will wave, and wave, and wave
Until our boy comes home again,
Or finds in France his grave.
Nay—tho' its blue star turn to gold,
Because of war's grim chance,
It still shall wave to say: "Thank God!
We've got a boy in France!"
—William C. Demorest, in Leslie's Weekly.

Bright Flowers Of Speech.

In the June "Atlantic Monthly" there appears the following bright flowers of democratic speech. A friend of the magazine whose duties render him familiar with the correspondence of the American people with their Secretary of the Treasurery picked them. The writers' allusions are commonly directed toward the amount of pay allotted by the Department to dependents of soldiers. A common intensity runs through the appeals.

We have another war baby in our house How much more do I get?

Dear Mr. McAdoo: I have a wife and four children. Should I have more or less?

Please send me my allotment. I have a little baby and knead it every day.

You have taken my man away to fight and he was the best fighter I ever had; now you will have to keep me or if you don't, who in h—— will?

My boy is in France, where he is liable to be hurried into maternity any minute.

A practical mother who had imperfectly understood her boy's election to the command of a platoon writes,—My boy has been put in charge of a spittoon. Will I get more money now?

I have a four months old baby and he is my only support.

I am a poor widow and all I have is in the front.

Please send me a wife's form.

Now, Mrs. Wilson, I need help badly, see if the President can't help me, I need him to see after me.

To whom it may concern: Please return my marriage certificate. Baby hasn't eaten in 3 days.

An extract from a boy to his mother:—I am writing in the Y. M. C. A. with a piano playing in my uniform.'

You have changed our little girl into a boy. Will it make any difference?

Please let me know if John had put in his application for a wife and child.

I am writing to ask why I have not received my elopement money. His money was kept from him for the elopement I never received.

Just a line to let you know I am a widow and four children.

Dear Mrs. Wilson: I have already written to Mr. Headquarters and received no answer, and if I don't get one from you, I am going to write to Uncle Sam himself.

How natural and normal is this comment!

I received $61 and I am certainly provoked to-night.

I did not know my husband had a middle name and if he did I didn't think it was none.

You ask for my allootment number. I have 4 boys and 2 girls.

I received my insurance polish, and have since moved my post office.

Could honest, human irritation against form letters be more concisely expressed than in the indignant satire of this reply?

Question: Your relationship to him?

Answer: Just a mere aunt and a few cousins.

Obituary.

On March 20, 1916, the Angel of Life entered the home of Carey and Minta Priest near Leesburg, and to them was born a son. Wendell Carey, they christened him, and such a happy, hearty little son he grew to be. Safely he passed through the dangers that e'er beset the journey of the small traveler along the borderland of earthly existence, and he gave every promise of developing into a sturdy youth.

A few days ago he fell a victim to that world scourge, Spanish Influenza, and developed bronchial pneumonia. He fought valiantly for life but early in the morning of March 13, 1919, his pure baby soul was released from its suffering body and wafted in angel arms to the presence of Him who said, "Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me, and Forbid Them Not, For of Such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

A little less than three short years were Wendell's; yet how much those few years have held—so much of anxious loving care, so much of parental joy and pride; so much of charming baby ways and funny pranks. But now the pretty hands are quiet, and the merry lips are stilled. The precious boy sings with the Cherubim.

"The home has been so strangely still,
Since the bady died.
The birds no longer seem to thrill
Since the baby died.

The sunshine's gone and shades of gloom
Lurk in the corners of the room,
The roses have a fainted bloom
Since the baby died.

The stars seem brighter than before
We'er nearer to the other shore,
Since the baby died.
Not in his anger but in love,
Not as an eagle, but a dove,
There's less below and more above
Since the baby deid."

Card of Thanks.

The mother and children desire to express their heartfelt thanks to the choir and their many friends who rendered such timely aid and sympathy during the sickness and death of their loved one and also the Dallas M. E. Sunday School for their beautiful flowers. May heaven reward their kindness.

Obituary.

Delbert Henry Pence, younger of two sons of Richards A. and Louella Pence, was born near Russell, Ohio, September 11, 1901, and died March 9, 1919, aged 17 years, 5 months and 28 days. His father having preceded him to "that land beyond," he leaves behind, of his immediate family, a kind and loving mother, his older brother, Joe., grand-mother Kirkhart, grand-father and grand-mother Pence. Also a host of relatives and friends, whose sympathies are extended to his loved ones as they mourn their loss.

Delbert was never a strong, rugged boy physically, yet he always tried to do his part as best he could. His character was genial and sociable, and wherever he might be he was surrounded by friends, for his friends were numbered by his acquaintances.

When, just a child, his parents moved to Chillicothe, where he lived until a few years since. He always went to church and Sunday school and at the early age of 13 years he confessed his Lord and Master and was buried with Him in baptism.

In Sunday School he was always a bright pupil, his bright mind and ready wit, all tended to make him foremost in his class. We will miss him, Church, Sunday School and friends; but most of all his mother, for it is as she has said: "I wanted to keep him, he was my baby." Yet after all, the life we live, is what our friends mmre e.rbe awlsyso our friends remember.

Guy S. Finnegan, the youngest son of Charles and Clara Finnegan, was born near Prospect, Highland county, Ohio, February 3rd, 1895, and died after a protracted illness, covering a period of more than three years, June 18th, 1919.

Guy was a young man of cheerful disposition and his energetic spirit no doubt added many days to his stay with us. As in so many like cases the intimacy of the family during these many months of illness, shall cause them to feel keenly the departure of this beloved son and brother. The deceased was a regular attendant at the M. E. Sunday School when his health permitted, where he took a deep interest in the study of the lesson. Many shall miss him, but we hope to meet him in the home where sickness never comes to sadden and where parting is not known.

He leaves to mourn his loss a mother and three brothers, William H., Raymond A and Walter S. Finnegan and a number of relatives and friends.

The funeral services were held at his home, conducted by Rev. A. E. Huntington and the remains were laid to rest in the Boston cemetery.

In Memoriam.

Martha A., daughter of James and Elizabeth Brown, was born near Marshall, Ohio Sept. 29, 1837. She was one of five children, three of whom, George Brown, of Paris, Ill., Wm. Brown, of Browing, Montana, and Mrs. Sara Creed, of Marshall, Ohio survive her.

On December 24, 1857, she was united in marriage with David W. Cox, who was called from her side by death in February, 1907. To this union were born twin daughters, Lida Christina and Ella Cornelia, who died at the age of eight years, and were buried in one grave; also five sons, Elmore and Joseph, deceased; Wm. Cox, of Lynchburg, O.; Chas. Cox, of Dayton, Ohio; and W. S. Cox, of Leesburg. They, with seven grand-children and eight great grand-children, are today mourning the loss of a most devoted mother.

When a girl the deceased identified herself with the Presbyterian Church at Marshall. After her marriage she transferred her membership to the M. E. Church, of which her husband was a member. Her faith was simple and direct. Grasping the essentials of religious truth she held them without doubt and without question. She was loyal to her church and one of the greatest regrets of her life was when advanced age, with its infirmities made it necessary for her to forego the privilege of being in her place at morning and evening services.

On the morning of the 28th inst. after but a short illness, she was called from her earthly home to that above where she awaits us.

Fourescore and one year, four months and twenty-nine days was the time allotted to Mrs. Cox for her earthly career. So long a life must have included days that were dark and dreary, but the deceased never failed to see the silver lining that lies behind every cloud. She never flinched from life, but grappled firmly and cheerfully with it, as if it were a sum to be properly done.

She possessed such rare and beautiful traits of character as won to her all those with whom she became associated. Those who saw her daily and to whom she revealed her secret thoughts and feeling were those who loved her most.

Honesty, truthfulness, cheerfulness and absolute integrity were leading traits in her character. As daughter, sister, wife and mother, she did her full duty, leaving no careless work behind her. "To minister, not to be ministered unto," was the keynote of her life.

PRICETOWN.

The traffic of our community seems very quiet since the flu has been raging.

The sick are all recuperating with no more cases to report at present.

Ira Gossett and P. F. Certier have been soliciting among some of adjoining land owners this week with a petition for subscribers to build a pike four miles; beginning at Pricetown going south to Buford.

Anyone desiring any fresh vegetables in the near future may get supplies if they call on our early gardner, G. W. Tedrick. But do not come until he grows them. He says he has his garden made.

The body of T. L. H. Daggy, of Hamilton, Ohio, was brought here for burial last Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. V. Miller at the Harwood Chapel. Mr. Baggy had lived most all his life in this community and was widely known, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was considered one of the best teachers of Highland county and held the position as principal for many years since he moved from our midst. His many friends and associates will be sorry to hear of his death.

Our farmers have been taking full advantage of the fine weather and the dark of the moon to sow their clover seed.

Ervin Leininger has been filling the place of clerk for Henry Swearingen. Mr. Swearingen being confined to the house caring for his family, taking the place as nurse, cook and housekeeper, the entire family of seven stricken with flu.

We should congratulate ourselves and especially our President and receive him with open arms on his safe return to the U. S.

Mrs. Grace Stultz, who has been in the employ of Mr. Swearingen, has been compelled to go home and care for her children who are flu victims.

Lou. Roush and family, of near Chasetown, were calling on his parents, C. H. Roush and wife, Monday; also shopping in our village the same day.

Claude Gossett was in our village the other day and as everybody knows, Claude is jolly and cheerful, but he was wearing such a wonderful smile and it was all because they call him papa now. A little daughter, Jean, came to bless their home Feb. 25, 1919.

G. W. Tedrick, J. E. Barker and Nenry Barr called at the home of Ezekiel Aber Thursday morning to see if they were in need of help as Mr. Aber's family are all stricken with the flu.

Mrs. Bessie Donohoo, of Hillsboro, has been taking the place of nurse here. She was caring for three families during her stay here from Tuesday until Sunday evening.

Miss Rachel Faris has been employed to clerk for J. M. Foust since his sickness.

Harry Dodson returned to Middletown Thursday, where he will resume his work in a paper mill, after spending a few weeks with home folks.

Mrs. Margaret Faris and Mrs. Ada Remley, of Miamisburg, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Barker Friday.

The township trustees had their regular meeting Saturday afternoon.

P. H. Shaffer and son, Harley, were transacting business in Hillsboro Saturday afternoon.

Tom Swearingen and wife, of Needful, were shopping in our village Saturday.

J. M. Foust, who has been confined to his bed for the past week, is not improving very fast.

J. W. Abraham, of near Hollowtown, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tedrick Sunday afternoon.

Miss Cecil Wardlow returned home Saturday from Middletown.

Ervin Leininger and wife and Hoyt Leininger and wife called on Jacob Stultz and wife at Lynchburg Sunday afternoon. Also John Briggs and wife, of near Dodsonville, the same evening.

Last Saturday, February 22, Washington's birthday, will certainly be a memorial day for the people of this vicinity, as there was scarely a house without some one sick with the flu, and in several places the entire family.

P. F. Certier informed the writer that he has the majority that is required for the pike that he has been soliciting for the past week and has sent the names in for the commissioners to accept or reject.

Clyde Montgomery will move to the farm of his father-in-law vacated by Dewey Wardman the first of the week.

Obituary.

John, winsome little son of Chas and Lottie Archer Blackmore, was born December 10, 1915, and died at the home of his parents, in Oakley, Cincinnati, Ohio, February 3, 1919. The untimely flight of his beautiful little life was a great shock to a host of friends, who share with the bereaved parents the sense of grief and loss. Of a bright, happy disposition, John had won his way into the hearts of the people of a wide neighborhood; of the Sunday School of the Christian Church, where he was found regularly unless prevented by sickness; and of all who knew him. He took unusual interest for one of his age in the Bible, and of late had wanted to hear more about "little Moses" and "baby Jesus" each night before going to bed.

The memory of this little life, lived so close to his Jesus, will be a most precious legacy to the devoted father and mother, and to his relatives. The same Jesus he loved was He who said "suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." He has answered the summons, he whose infancy was tended with such gentleness and love, whose life was guarded with such anxious care, whose growth was watched with such interest and affection, and for whose future there was such fond anticipation. But it is the Master who has plucked the flower from its earthly stem, and although we cannot understand now why this life should have been so suddenly taken, yet we believe that He doeth all things wisely and well.

John's life was a blessing to all who knew him. And so, the fondly loved child whose passing hence now bows our hearts with grief was neither given to us nor taken away from us in vain, but, having fulfilled a divine mission here, has gone from earthly sorrows to heavenly joys, and, by a hundred tender memories, sweet hopes, and gentle influences, is calling us to follow.

Even our dim eyes can see that the reaper whom we call death may be an angel of mercy to the young child who, ere the purity of childhood had been sullied by the stains of earth, and ere the joys of childhood had been clouded by the sorrows of later life, is taken into the world of light, where sin and sorrow, and disquieting cares, and bitter disappointments, and heartaches can never come.

MARCH 1919

T. H. L. Daggy, son of Jacob Benjamin and Elizabeth Ellen Daggy, was born, in Highland county, April 10, 1861, and just as the night was fading into darkness on the evening of Feb. 23, 1919, after a journey of not quite three score years, this life laden with the joy of its own good works was transported from this eathly shore to the celestial city of God and today Hamer Daggy's spirit is in the city directory of the New Jerusalem.

On July 5, 1883, he was united in marriage to Miss Laura Pegan, and to this union three children were born, one daughter, Mrs. Kelley Roberts, preceding him some thirteen years ago. One son, Oliver Daggy, of Hamilton, Ohio, and one daughter, Mrs. A. C. Duvall, of Oxford, Ohio, together with the wife, four grandchildren, one brother, W. O. Daggy, of Harwood, Ohio, and one sister Mrs. Anna B. Hawk, of Hamilton, Ohio, are left to mourn their loss.

He united with the Christian Church at Harwood, Ohio, some years ago and had lived a faithful member until the last.

From his earliest youth, T. L. H. Daggy was a precocious child. In those days when books were scarce and education difficult to obtain, this boy struggled away until he had won a liberal education. Reared and educated in Highland county, the home of his birth, of which he always spoke with the deepest feeling, he, when at at an early age received his certificate and began teaching school. He taught school to within a few years of his death, teaching in several counties of Ohio and also in Tennessee, beinb principal at different times.

Intense as his sufferings were for almost a year he was never known to murmur or complain, but bore them patiently. When questioned concerning his spiritual condition his answer was "That was settled long ago and I am only waiting for the time to come that I can meet my Saviour."

Happy of disposition and kind-hearted, he was loved and respected by the many people with whom he came in contact. Everywhere he went, he left happiness and a brighter outlook on life; he was quick of mind and body always ready with an appropos remark; his heart was always young and he was kind and generous past description.

Again the home circle is broken. The last sweet goodbye has been spoken. The Creator has laid claim to his soul and Death entering has carried off his own. God moves in mysterious ways. His wonders to perform, and we must only yield to His will. We reach out our hands only to find that He has not forsaken us, only taken unto Himself our dearest and most beloved. In the sunny clime of the eternal heavens he will abide forever and soon we shall meet again to part no more.

The funeral services were held on the afternoon of Feb. 25, at the Harwood Christian Church, being conducted by Rev. W. V. Miller, a close friend of the deceased, and the remains were laid to rest in the Harwood cemetery.

May the Lord comfort the deeply bereaved wife and children with the gracious promises of His revealed truth.

Obituary.

Harry Milton, son of James H. and Ida F. Lovett, was born near Cynthiana, Pike county, Ohio, Feb. 25, 1894, and departed this life March 21, 1919, aged 25 years and 23 days. He was united in marriage to Nellie Cochran May 20, 1916, by Dev. LaVerne Taylor.

He leaves to mourn his loss a very dear wife, whose fidelity to her home and devotion to her husband are seldom surpassed. She was always ready to cheer and comfort him and point him to a higher plane. He also leaves a very dear father and mother, five brothers and one sister, namely: Gilbert, Ashton, Mrs. Henry Smith, of Sinking Spring, Clarence, of Elmwood, Ill., Fred and Willie.

He is gone, and all are here today, except Ashton, who is ill, to look on his face for the last time and bid him goodbye, whom they loved. He was honest and generous to a fault. He was ever ready to lend a helping hand, kind and effectionate, and through these he merited the esteem of many.

He had been a member of the J. O. of U. A. M. far some time. He was reared in the home with the influence of truth and righteousness about him

RUSSELL.

Mrs. Frank Burton died at her home here Friday, April 4, after two weeks illness. Rev. Spurrier held a beautiful service at their home Sunday afternoon in presence of a large crowd of relatives and friends and interment at Strange cemetery afterwards. A husband three sons and a daughter are left to sorrow for this faithful wife and mother and the sympathy of a host of friends is felt for them in their bereavement. Those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Edith Brewer, of Xenia, Paul Sanderson and wife, of Logan, Ova Hopkins and wife, Mrs. Rodgers, Frank Crosen and wife, Walter Kirkhart, of Hillsboro, Mr. and Mrs. Hazelman, Ed Ellis, who conducted the funeral, and wife, of New Vienna, and a number from other places.

Allen Burton and family and Harry Burton and family, who were called here by the sickness and death of their mother, returned to their homes in Newark Sunday morning.

In Loving Remeberance of Jas. L. Spilker, Died April 17, 1918.

Just one year ago you left us,
Left us, yes, for evermore;
But we hope to meet you, Jimmie
On that bright and happy shore.

We miss thee from our home, Jimmie
We miss thee from thy place,
A shadow o'er our life is cast,
We miss the sunshine of thy face.

We know if you could speak to us,
You would tell us not to weep,
Heaven retaineth now our treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps.

The image of thy loving face
Whose radiance cheered us on life's way,
Shall live in memory's embrace
As long as reason holds her sway.

It is sad that one we cherish
Should be taken from our home,
But the joys that do not perish
Live in memory alone.

The vacant place, the empty chair,
We see them day by day;
And oh it fills our hearts with care
Since our loved one went away.

In Memoriam.

Thos. W. Shaffer, son of Henry and L. A. Shaffer, was born near Dodsonville, O., Dec. 20 1854, and died very suddenly at his home in Lynchburg, O., Feb. 11, 1919, aged 64 years, 1 month and 21 days. On the 6th of Oct., 1878, he was united in marriage to Miss Clara Baker. To this union were born ten children, 8 sons and 2 daughters, the wife and all the children surviving the father except one son who died in infancy. These children, seven grand-children and the wife and mother are left to mourn the loss of a kind father and husband. They were all permitted to be present at the last sad rites except the youngest son, Leonard, who is with the American forces in France.

Brother Shaffer has spent his entire life in this community on a farm with the exception of the last five years. During that time he has been a resident of Lynchburg. He was a member of the Lutheran Church at Dodsonville, having united in early life. Mr. Shaffer was a good citizen and neighbor and will be missed not alone by his family but by a large circle of neighbors and friends.

Friend after friend departs;
Who has not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts,
That finds not here an end;

Were this frail world our final rest,
Living or dying, none were blest.
There is a world above,
Where parting is unknown;

A long eternity of love
Formed for the good alone;
And faith beholds the dying here,
Translated to that glorious sphere.

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their knidness in our sad bereavement.—Mrs. Shaffer and family.

Obituary.

Annetta, daughter of Allen and Martha Hodson, was born Nov. 29, 1861. She was married to Frank Burton, Jan. 21, 1886, and to this union were born six children, four sons, Allen, Harry, Oscar and Ulric, and two daughters, Janie Russell and Bernice Marie. Oscar and pretty baby Bernice were waiting the coming of mother on theother shore. The others, all with mother, giving her all the love and care possible, but saw in spite of all earthly efforts she slowly drifted from them and on the evening of April 4, 1919, the hands which had ministered so lovingly and so faithfully to the wants of her family and friends were folded and her eyes were closed and mother was gone to join the many loved ones in the other shore there to wait the coming of others as they leave this old world so full of sorrow, suffering and bereavement and on this stricken household the death of mother has cast a shadow that will never be lifted, until like her, they too, cross the silent river and bask in the sunlight of eternal day at God's right hand.

When quite young sister Anna joined the M. E. Church—her home church—at Russell under the ministry of Rev. Vance and has retained her membership with all members of her family ever since, but on the church roll mother's name will be stricken the first to go to meet the daughters gone before. And may all look forward to a glad reunion where they, like she, has answered the last long roll call and make an unbroken family in the happy home land where she is at rest. There never could have been a more faithful loving mother than sister Anna was and as a neighbor, nothing was too good or nothing too hard for her to do for any of her friends or family. She was most hospitable at her home and was never happier than when surrounded by her children, grand-children and friends, all found a warm welcome from her and many will miss her cheery presence and possibly no one in the neighborhood will be more missed by all than she. And today in the warm spring sunlight as all nature is awakening to life again we look for the last time on the loved one so beautiful in her silent sleep. May we not forget we shall see her again. So goodbye for a little while, goodbye.

Death Of Miss Willa Robinson.

After a lingering illness Miss Willa Robinson passed away at her home last Sunday at the age of 28 years, and as a token of respect to one of their most popular teachers, the Hillsboro schools were closed Tuesday afternoon, the time of the services.

Miss Robinson was a graduate of the Hillsboro High School and until illness forced her to give up her life work, was a most successful and highly efficient teacher. Her absence will be greatly felt by the many classmate and pupil friends she had, and she leaves a wide circle of friends who will mourn her untimely passing.

Services were conducted at the home Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Bennett at which time Prof. Jackson paid a touching tribute to her memory. Other services were later held Tuesday afternoon at New Market and she was laid to rest beside her father and brothers, who have preceded her, leaving a lonely mother, Mrs. M. L. SINISTER

Feeling Or Unrest Surging Beneath The European Surface.

DESCRIBED BY LLYOD MIGNERY

In Letter Just Received. Is In Sarbounne University In Paris. Expects To Enter "Y" Work.

"With the condition of European politics at present as it is, I sometimes doubt the advisibility of a too-rapid demobilization of troops," is the way Lloyd B. Mignerey describes the situation in Europe in a letter just received from him.

Mr. Mignerey is well known through this section, as he formerly was a minister, later took up Y. M. C. A. work and then volunteered for service abroad in the Medical Department.

Realizing the timely interest of the letter, his father has kindly consented to its publication as follows:

Mr. Ed. C. Mignerey,
Mowrystown, Ohio.

Dear Father:

The big roll of papers and music was forwarded from camp to me here at Paris a few days ago. It could scarcely have come to me at a more opportune moment, for I was just getting located in a French home at the time—and a home where we have all the music that we have time for. I sometimes venture to feel my way on the violin. Of course it is better for me to have music with which I am familiar.

I have written you twice before, a word about the work at the Sarboune here, and sent the letters through the French post. Did you ever receive them? At any rate it will do no harm to let you know again, that my school work is best divided into three distinct parts; class at the Sarboune; French family life and Paris.

The impressions thus far make what is to me a rather interesting jumble. The lectures at school, the overpowering air of antiquity about much of Paris—with the history and tradition of centuries on her shoulders—and the moving crowds of peoples of all kinds and colors now at Paris. Truly it is a "stamping ground of all nations." The eyes of the world are turned toward Paris at present. It is the melting pot of ideas—from the most radical to the most conservative. One can catch a glimpse here and there of a sinister feeling surging beneath the surface of things; a feeling of unrest; of disgust at the in-equality of living conditions—made far worse, no doubt, by the war. With the condition of European politics at present as it is I sometimes doubt the advisibility of a too-rapid demoblization of troops. And yet, it seems that it is against the domineering tyranny of the military system of things that the people of the world—this world, I mean—are revolting. To me it is clear enough. And from what I have seen and heard from a multitude of sources such a re-action is not impossible in our own scheme of things. The sooner the whole world gets away from its powder and its guns and at work the better. At present there is simply a lack of CONFIDENCE. People have confidence in system of government, military or otherwise. One thing is certain; they can't go back to the old scheme of things, the result of which has been this wholesale murder of four years. And until that new scheme of things is estab lsihed there is bound to be unrest, suspicion, distrust. After seeing what I have, I for one am prepared for almost anything.

But—I might write a volume on this subject—perhaps to have a goodly portion of it discarded by the censor—perhaps to have the rest thrown in with the great mass of useless "literature" from the great war.

I want you to know, however, how much more like living this is than life at camp. Hrere one's mind begins to function again—very sluggishly, I must admit. Months of living in the mud—sleeping in barracks overrun with rats and mice—doing for weeks without clean water to wash a mess-kit is not the best kind of inspiration to keep a fellow's mind in smooth working order. And all of these things I have had to put up with. HERE one feels the great throb of world events. Life seems a little more like life,—especially with a newspaper every morning and night. So far as the associations are concerned, it is like rising from a trench-rat to an international citizen. I shall be eternally grateful to the government for bringing this bit of sunshine into our lives over here. Handicapped as we may be, it is an opportunity the like of which, I believe, has never before been offered. What disposition will be made of us after the school closes here—the latter part of June—I do not IS RUMORED that we home. Also that those organizations are still in

Obituary.

"And I heard a voice from Heaven saying, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, Yea sayeth the spirit that they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

Flora Belle Tedrick (nee) Harris, daughter of Flavius J. and Nancy Harris, was born May 22, 1854, and departed this life May 20, 1919, aged 64 years 11 months and 28 days. She has been a member of the Christian Church for 35 years and in 1911 she moved her membership to this place, always obeying her Master, but for the past two years had been suffering with a lingering disease.

She was loved by all who knew her and her death has caused a vacancy in the home. Oh how sad and lonely the home will be without her sweet voice, but we must say boodbye, but then face to face we shall know even as we are known. She was one who could say as of old, "Oh grave, where is thy victory, Oh death, where is thy sting."

She was always ready to lend a helping hand or speak kind words of cheer and comfort to the sad and bereaved, for in the midst of life we are in death, but to the husband whose cup of sorrow is filled to overflowing and the adopted son, who never knew what it was to be bereft of a mother, there is a sweet consolation in the thought that she has entered a home eternal, which will help to heal the broken hearts for we believe though she is absent from the body she is present with the Lord. While the family circle has been broken may her life be a guiding star by which this circle may be united in the great beyond, where she awaits husband and an adopted son, whom she raised from a babe and gave the care of a mother.

She has fought a good fight and kept the faith; Henceforth there is laid up for her a crown in the great beyond. She has fallen asleep in the arms of Jesus.

She leaves a husband and son, three loving sisters, two brothers, one little grand-son and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

BATTLE FIELDS

Of France Described In Detail In Letter Just Received From

LLOYD B. MIGNEREY

Who Recently Toured All The Famous Battle Grounds. Spiritual Significence Seen.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Ed. C. Mignerey, of Mowrystown, Ohio, we are permitted to print in full the following interesting letter from his son, Lloyd Mignerey, who with wonderful description power tells of his recent visits to the hallowed battle fields of France.

Sarborne Detachment,
A. P. O. 712, Paris, France,
Wednesday, 11 a. m.
June 24, 1919.

Mr. Ed. C. Mignerey,
Mowrystown, Ohio.
U. S. A.

Dear Father—

Some week ago I wrote mother regarding the closing of school here. Three weeks more and I shall be headed for home, with many stops by the wayside at "delousing stations," embarkation and debarkation camps.

Last Friday at two o'clock I went out to the American War Cemetery at Surames, where President Wilson was to give a Memorial Day address. He was speaking when I arrived—but he went on speaking just the same. He has probably forgotten that time he shook hands with me and about ten thousand others in the capitol at Columbus three of more years ago. I can forgive him—he's had trouble enough of his own since then; and especially in the Peace Conference where, it seems to me, the selfish, greedy desires of the nations have shown themselves in their true light as at no other time in the war. I wonder if people will see the hyprocrisy of all this fighting, when, underlying it all, and even surpassing it, is the selfish whims of senile old men as devoid of future visions as they possibly can be, and living forever in the traditions of the past. We are seeing now some of the hates that were the cause of the war-the hates the war has bred. Wilson has had his hands full with his vision of the future and his plans for the present. I do not believe he will succeed. And not succeeding, I believe the way is being lain to another war that will mean world Revolution. I tell you the peoples of the world cannot put up with this scheming and plotting and grabbing and stabbing forever.

I never realized that so much as last Friday, Saturday and Sunday when I visited along the battlefields of the Western front. [illegible] other story, and, like mos[illegible] me, has a SPIRITUAL [illegible] CENCE; a moral some[illegible]

The ground about Reims becomes more level, and in the distance can be seen the two tall towers of the old cathedral, appearing from this distance as intact as ever. As the train passes east of the city and curves around to the north, you can see the church through heaps of ruins—battered homes and crumbling shops. But always you have the cathedral with you. It is impossible to get away from it. It is the heart of the city; the one dominating Spirit in the midst of the ruins. As we approach the town, off to the right perhaps a mile distant can be seen an elevation of snowy whiteness. Later in the day we make a trip out to that hill by auto and see something of the destruction wrought by concentrated heavy-artillery fire.

Intervening between the railroads and the white hill top are oceans of tangled wire; the ground is churned by shells, and zig-zagging stretches of trenches and dugouts are seen in every direction. Every thing seems to take on the appearance of having been just left by the armies. We pass three tanks, two in "good" condition, the other a heap of old iron.

We come into the station at Reims. The front of it is battered and bespeckled with fragments of many shells. Off to the right, among the trees of a little park, the several Y. M. C. A. huts for the accomadation of visiting soldiers. The city itself seems alive with people, presenting a striking contrast to all the rest of the country, Verdun included, where a Sunday quietness hangs forever over town and fields, and which seems to be absolutely deviod of living thingh. No men; no women; no cows, ors heep, or barnyard fowls. The desolation is indescribable, as is the growing heaviness of the heart as one views it all. The very silence and desolution of the country speak louder than any words. The few people who have returned to the ruins of their homes are miserably poor—and dirty.

At Reims all is changed so far as the people are concerned. I was deceived by it at first. Three trips through the city were sufficient however, to prove that of all these cities Reims is the most battle scarred, and that the great number of people who came and went were, like myself, visitors from elsewhere.

I doubt if one house has been untouched by shell fire. I took a French auto out to the white hill by the railroad. It was once called Fort Pompell. Situated on the top of a hill it became the object of heavy fire, until the fort has been literally pulverized, and the top of the hill itself blown away. Shell craters large enough to contain a five-room house. Its like Alpine climbing to walk from the road across the hill—which is no hill! A good view from the top shows the surrounding battlefields at its very worst. Seeing a tank not far down the valley near the road where I had left the auto, I started across the field to get a picture. Accompanying me was an American friend whom I had found at the fort. Again words fail. The lines of trenches and wire! Fragments of shells, rusty red in the white earth! Piles of hand grenades! Unexploded shell. My friend and, I talk of the uncanny odor. Something is unmistakable dead.

He has a piece of candle ni his pocket and we carefully go down in a dugout. The depth is almost unbelieveable. The narrow stairway makes two turns downward into a long narrow room containing about a dozen bunks. At the farther end I find a bayonet on the floor under one of the wire beds. Carefully examining it for wires in case of trap, and, finding none, I pick it up and carry it to the light thirty feet above. Further examination shows it to be a German saw-tooth bayonet in a leather scabbard; and immense clot of blood on one side of the wooden handle. I bring it along as a souvenir. Further along we climb out of the trench to get our direction, and head again toward the tank. My friend suddenly yells out, "Here's a dead German!" Sure enough, in the grass at our feet is a black, twisted mass of gray uniform, boots and bones—and rotting flesh! the stench is not unlike that of a dead horse seen in a shell hole above Verdun. I can scarcely believe that that bit of filth there was once a Man. Before we reached the tank we came upon two other similar bodies.

In the presence of this, I m

SUICIDE 8-15-1919

Of Hillsboro Girl At Nelsonville Last Monday.

MRS. ROBT. MILLER KILLS SELF

By Inhaling Gas. Body Brought Here And Services Held Wednesday Afternoon.

The tragic news of the suicide of Mrs. Robert Miller was a severe shock to her many friends and relatives here when the sad message was received last Monday telling of the tragedy at Nelsonville.

All available information shows that the rash act must have been one of impulse as there was no intimation of any kind that would tend to show that she had contemplated such a thing. A letter was received by her parents here, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Fenner, of West Beech street, which was written the day before she took hr life. In it nothing was said that would show despondency or any tendency toward suicide. On the other hand she was apparently in good spirits and was preparing for a visit here.

When her husband left home on his way to work Monday morning she reminded him of the contemplated trip here and told him to "Be sure and get the tickets for us to go home." About 8 a. m. nieghbors saw her on the front porch but no one saw her alive after that hour.

When Mr Miller returned at noon there was no sign of his wife and no preparation for the meal. He naturally commenced looking for her and upon entering her bed room found her lying on the floor dead. She had apparently taken the tubing from the gas stove and fastened it to the jet in her room.Then, turning on the gas she had laid down on the floor and pulled a bed spread over her head. Mr. Miller immediately summoned a physician who said she had been dead several hours when discovered.

There is no way of accounting for the rash act other than that it might have been a temporary unbalancing of her mind resulting from an accident sustained last December. This accident occurred during the time her husband was in the army. Mrs. Miller had temporarily assumed her husband's position in the R. R. office during that time and was in the habit of riding home in company with other employees, on a switch engine. One day she fell from the engine injuring her head and breaking an arm. Since that time it is said that she has been very nervous and it is very probably that the blow on her head may have unbalanced her mind, since her death her former employer stated that she had become extremely nervous since the accident. The deceased left no message of any kind.

The body of Mrs Miller, who was 27 year of age, was brought here Tuesday and taken to the home of her parents, where funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Charles Bennett. Interment in the Hillsboro cemetery.

Mrs. Miller was a comely, and most pleasant young woman and had many friends who are sorrowfully shocked at the sad occurrance.

FIRST LAW

Made In This Section Caused By Whiskey.

INTERESTING LOCAL HISTORY

Covering The First Liquor Legislation, The First Stills And The Whiskey Road.

In order for the present generation to have a faint realization of the power it took to wrench our country from the tenacious hold of whiskey we should know something of the part it played in pioneer days.

While there were yet neither courts nor judges it was necessary for the people of Chillicothe to pass temperance legislation. When the town was first settled, the price of whiskey ($4.50 per gallon) made it a luxury, but in 1797, the price dropped to 50c per gallon on account of the large quantities brought in on the keel boats. Then all could afford it and it is said men, women and even children became drunkards. The town was also constantly filled with drunken Indian who had exchanged furs for "firewater."

Finally a meeting of the more orderly citizens was held on the banks of the Scioto, at the end of Mulberry Street, to decide what should be done. At this meeting it was resolved that "if a trader or keeper of a tavern or drinking shop should sell whiskey to the Indians, and get them intoxicated, he should keep all indians made drunk in his own store house until they were perfectly sober. If anyone should violate this resolution, he should be reproved for the first offense; on the second all his kegs or barrels of whiskey should be taken out into the streets and tomahawked until all the contents were run out."

Thus appears the first legislation by the people of Ohio.

The following incidents, depicting different stages of the liquor evil in Highland County, are based on various histories and sketches of our county.

The first distillery established in Highland county was by Louis Gibler, near his mill on Whiteoak Creek in 1803. It was of log, without windows. Gibler used but one still, which was of copper. For many years after the date of the first still house in Highland county whiskey was kept in every cabin, without perhaps a single exception, when it could be procured, and the "little brown jug" never failed to be handed out when visitors entered the home. It was regarded a gross insult not to set out the whiskey and equally an unkindness not to partake.

The next still house established in the county was Philip Wilkin in 1804, at his residence in the present township of Hamer. Men came for many miles to these distilleries for whiskey and when they had not money to pay for the article, they carried a sack with one or two bushels of corn in it. Sometimes a bushel of shelled corn in one end of the bag and an empty jug in the other. The rate of exchange in these commodities was a bushel of shelled corn for a gallon of whiskey.

These small log cabin distilleries were found totally inadequate to the demands of the people, and as a natural consequence they cast about for a more abundant supply.

Early in 1809, it was ascertained the Hemphill, an old Virginia Dutchman, had established a pretty extensive still in Adams county a few miles east of the present town of Winchester. The men of New Market determined to supply themselves with his whiskey. After a brief deliberation they decided to not only penetrate the thick forest of fifteen miles, which shut them out from Hemphill's still house, but actually to open a thoroughfare between New Market and the still.

They set out on the la

In the morning they were upearly. The whiskey barrel, upon examination, was unfortunately found almost empty,—merely enough for "bitters" all around. This discovery greatly accelerated the progress of the work and by eleven o'clock the company reached the haven of their hopes—the still.

Immediately after a good dinner they purchased a barrel of Hemphill's "Best," placed it on the slide and started for home. On the return more speed was made, and in view of the wonderful shrinkage of the fluid on the slide, the previous day, more stringent regulations were adopted, by which all hands succeeded in reaching New Market before bed time, with considerably more than a half barrel of whiskey, all safe and sound on the slide.

The road was too thoroughly baptised with whiskey at its opening to ever lose its name, although it now passes through a community of intelligent, refined and Christain people, making the name of the road most inappropriate as these people pass soberly over such portions of it as are still in use.

The first arrest for retailing spirituous liquors contrary to law made in Highland county was in 1808. On the 24th day of October, the Court of Common Pleas, of Highland county held the fall term at the tavern of William Barnett in Hillsboro. A bill of indictment was found true against Thomas Hinkson, of Richland township, for "retailing spirituous liquors contrary to law." As this was the first case of the kind in the county considerable interest was felt in the result of the prosecution. The following is the record in the case: "This day appeared the attorney for the Commonwealth and the said Thomas Hinkson in his own proper person, who says he is not guilty of the charge alleged against him in the indictment, whereupon the attorney for the Commonwealth entered up a "nolle prosequi" and the said defendant was discharged." The only law in force at that day against the sale of intoxicating liquors was the territorial law passed in December 1799, and adopted by the first legislature of the state, making it penal to sell to Indians, and it was doubtless under this statute that Hinkson was indicted.

Stills now became numerous in the county, and were far more abundant than mills as late as 1825.

It can therefore be readily recognized that in 1873, the good people of this county faced a tremenduous task. "Name, fortune, profession, influence, the hopes and ambitions of a life time were as nothing—all were sacrificed to the love of strong drink."

Then it was a small group of refined gentlewomen—mothers and wives of men—went forth upon their divinely appointed mission of saving future generations from the degradation and despair they had witnessed in their day. It appeared a preposterous undertaking at the time, but faith can work miracles and the little "temperance whirlwind", which began in this modest corner of the world, gradually encircled the globe.

WHISKEY

Was Feature Of First July Celebration Held

AT NEW MARKET IN 1806

In Effort To Hold County Seat There. Compare That Riotous Orgy With Temperance Jubilee.

Amid the hurry and flurry of these strenous days, it is sometimes well to pause a while and give a glance backward over the way we have come, noting the progress we have made.

While enthusiastically preparing for the great July 2nd Celebration of our National freedom from the bondage of "booze," it is interesting to compare the spirit of the first July celebration in Highland county with that of today.

It is recounted in the early pioneer sketches of our county how the citizens of New Market in an effort to retain the "seat of justice" in their village decided to give a huge barbecue and invite the entire population of the county to the first July celebration, hoping thereby to win the consent of the people to leave the county seat as it was.

The preparations were elaborate. Ox, pig, mutton and turkey, to which were added all the dishes known to the art of the pioneer hiusewife, were prepared. The town was crowded. Being the first public gathering of consequence, every one made it a point to attend and partake of the free "eats."

Large tables were spread in the street in front of G. W. Barrere's tavern, around which the people naturally crowded to partake of the main feature of the day.

Led by a tattered flag that had belonged to a company in "Mad Anthony" Wayne's army, the militia paraded the streets in the morning, to the music of fife and drum, and performed military quotations and fired salutes.

The military, fife and drum and three fiddlers gathered around it. Over head the folds of "Old Glory" were unfurled to the breeze. Music, salutes and huzzas followed. Then the meeting was organized by electing a president, after which the Declaration of Independence was read. An oration followed, then dinner was announced, the eating of which, it is said, very much resembled a "grab game."

After satisfying their hunger the crowd cencentrated in the drinking of "toasts," and it is claimed these expressions of patriotism of that early day would furnish some interesting reading. The toasts were drunk in strong toddy and juleps brewed in cedar tubs, and flowed like water, and the spirits of the people became accelerated in proportion as the tin cups of julep circulated. The fifer and drummer made incessant noise as did the "fiddlers three."

Wrestling and other active games were indulged in and as the excitement grew and the drinking increased, fighting became general and the noise and confusion greater.

It was late before those who were not too drunk or too badly beaten up to travel, started for home, and it was not until the next morning that it occurred to the managers that they had forgotten the main object of the festivities.

If we sometimes grow pessimistic regarding the progress of civiliziation we need but take a retrospective glance into the past to convince ourselves of the fact that the world is growing better.

When we consider the almost immeasurable difference between the July Celebration of 1806, and our prospective demonstration of 1919, our hearts offer up reverent homage to those large souls that are the pathfinders of our Christian Civilization.

Therefore we should lay aside all thought of the daily affairs that occupy us, and give ourselves to the making of July 2nd, 1919, such a red letter day as shall greatly add to the notable history of our grand old town.

THE JULY 4, 1919

PRO-GERMAN

Chrystalizing Sentiment Against The League Of Nations.

GERMAN-AMERICAN CITIZENS

Flooding Country With Letter Of Protest. Senator Lodge And His Group Playing Into Their Hands.

The following article issued by Democratic Headquarters, after a thorough investigation into the matter, reveals the real source of the opposition to the League of Nations and the Peace Treaty.

The attitude of the Republican Congress toward President Wilson, the peace conference, the league and the treaty, is playing into the hands of every German sympathizer and every pro-German in the United States and is making possible further German propaganda in America. This is conclusively proved by the Christian Science Monitor in a recent article.

A so-called German-American Citizen League is flooding the country with propaganda protesting against the league of nations and the peace terms made to Germany. Over 10,000 printed protests have been sent to members of this league to be signed and forwarded to members of the Senate and House of Representatives.

The protests read as follows:

"As one of your constituents I earnestly request that you use your best endeavors to prevent the United States from joining the league of nations as proposed as it is dangerous to our interests and our sacred principles. I also protest against the peace terms because they are brutal and inhuman and opposite the 14 points declared by President Wilson and will certainly bear germ for new wars and bloodshed."

The protest makes no mention of the fact that it was issued by the German-American Citizens League.

A protest resolution bearing the letterhead of the organization also has been sent broadcast over the United States. It reads as follows:

"The peace treaty is now published. It is the exact reverse from what President Wilson promised the world. The confidence in President Wilson and his word by starving the German people, has been deceived in the most shameful manner through the spirit of revenge and desire of annihilation by our allies. The principles of true Democracy have been trampled upon. The American people appear before the world as hypocrites and its honor is at stake, should it consent to this peace treaty which certainly bears the germ of a new war and bloodshed. Therefor we, American citizens, protest most emphatically against this peace treaty and ask our Congress at Washington to refuse to sanction it or to approve this act of wild spirit of revenge and avarice."

The organization was formed as a political body which will "vote for the right man at the right time." It was organized by Dr. Hermann Gerhard, who organized the German branch of the American Embargo conference which sent 150,000 telegrams to Congress in 1916 protesting against the shipment of arms to the foes of Germany. He has also been active in the German-American Alliance and other pro-German activities.

The constitution of the so-called league declares for the preservation of the German language and German kultur, for the teachin man in all schools and the tion of the German press.

The very activities of thi openly announced, are the o caused this government so m ble during the war. The American who is pro-Germa mencing once more the t propaganda and political which honeycombed the States before the war and d greater part of the war.

Senator Lodge and hi group of partisans in the States Senate are playing for the German propagandi very constitution of this anti-American. It is the r the pro-German to become American; it is his refusal ulate and to adopt the c this country in preference t tur of Germany that ma organizations dangerous. teaching of German and Ger tur by pro-German teache schools that impedes the A ization of America.

There is no room in Am such organizations as this is no room in America for Kultur. The world has ree bloodshed and slaughter women and children becaus Kultur.

These pro-German prou declare against the treaty is inhuman and brutal. Th minute what peace term Kultur would be imposing ica today had the Kaiser torious.

We wonder whether Lodge will take courage wh ceives the 10,000 propaga grams. Will it give him zeal in his bitter, partisa tion to the President, th and the treaty? * * * *

Having lived all his life in Highland County, with the exception of two years spent in Columbus, he was very well known. He came to Hillsboro when a boy of 14 years of age, and attended school at the Academy. His first business adventure was in partnership with Joseph I. Woodrow, in the Dry Goods Business. Memoir.

The life of little Robert Roler may be compared to a flower that blossoms and in a few days is gone, so this little one, who brought sunshine and happiness into the home of its parents, has answered the angelic call and gone to the home of his heavenly father.

Robert, the youngest son, of C. W. and Maud Roler, was born November 4, 1918, and was called away July 19, 1919, at the age of 8 months and 15 days.

He has a brother and sister who have preceded him to that eternal home, and leaves a vacant spot in the home that can never be filled, a devoted father and mother, both Grandfather and grand-mothers, a large number of relatives and friends who mourn his loss.

The flower grows in splendon as its blossoms unfold so this little one was to this home a strong, robust baby boy, bringing more sunshine each day of his life, until twenty-one weeks ago, when attacked by the ravages of the dreadful Flu, which has left sorrow in so many homes.

All that science, skill, loving ministrations could do, was insufficient to prevent this fatal result. It seemed God's will, that he must go. It is hard to reconcile our hearts to the will of the great reaper, when he gathers the fairest flowers, that bloom among the golden grain, but children are the hands by which we take hold of heaven, by these tendrils we clasp it and climb thitherward. So the transplanting of this fair flower in heaven's garden, should lift the sorrowing souls of loved ones as they follow the touch of his rosy sunset into the realms of eternal peace and joy.

Obituary.

Prisatoria G. Coffman, daughter of Cyrus K. and Cecilia Coffman, was born August 13, 1860, and departed this life August 26, 1919, aged 59 years, and 13 days. Miss Coffman was highly respected and loved by all who knew her, greeting everyone with a smile and welcome. She was visiting relatives at Springfield when the summons came, calling her, to the great beyond, whence no traveler returns, but where all is love, joy and peace! She harkened to the call while in her youth by uniting with the Christian Church at Union, under the pastorate of the Rev. J. B. Bingamon. She lived a consistant Christian life and now has received the reward.

She suffered from a complication of diseases, but bore it all with patience and Christian fortitude, which was exemplary of her every day life. Her death leaves a vacancy, especially in the home circle, where the blow falls the hardest, as there her life worth was most appreciated.

Always ready with willing hands and a cheerful word to render aid when needed. "But the ways of God are not the ways of man," "For in the midst of life we are in death." But to the bereaved there is that sweet consolation, that sister is at rest, and has triumphantly entered home forever more. She was one who could truthfully say "That to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord."

Her life was in every respect an exemplary one, and leaves waves of influence that will broaden and deepen until it lashes yonder shore.

She has fought the good fight, kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for her a crown of righteousness. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Frank Foust, after which the remains were laid to rest in the family cemetery near New Market.

The golden gates were opened wide,
A gentle voice said come;
And angels from the other side,
Welcomed our loved one home.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to convey to our neighbors and friends our sincere thanks for the many kind words and acts in this our sad hour.—The Family.

In Memoriam.

The passing of Mrs. John Edingfield takes from New Vienna, one who was identified with the early society and history of our country, who during her long and consistent life was loved, admired and respected by her many friends.

Mrs. Edingfield was the type of the old fashioned woman, with her unostentatious charities, her gift for home making and her generous hospitality.

She was the second of twelve children of Joshua Whittington and Elizabeth Polk, one of the old families of Highland county. Of this large family six brothers and three sisters survive.

Lydia Catherine Polk was born May 24, 1839, and from the old homestead on February 21, 1867, was united in marriage to John Edingfield, also of Highland county.

For more than fifty-two years they traveled this pathway of life hand in hand, shoulder to shoulder heart to heart. Through joy and sorrow alike, the tide of affection was always at the highest.

When the infirmities of age kept them at home, no sense of loneliness ever entered, as each was content the companionship of the other.

To them were born two daughters, Nannie Elizabeth, now Mrs. Tennyson Sanders, of Leesburg, Ohio, and Mary Whittington, now Mrs. J. H. Nordyke, of Baton Rouge, La.

Kathryn Sanders, a student at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and Glenn and Karl Nordyke, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, are the only grandchildren.

Although her strength was never equal to her ambition, her's was a life of service. Regardless of a frail constitution she, until her marriage taught in the different schools in Highland county, and the memory of those school days and associations with her pupils were ever her fondest recollection.

She was a lover of the beautiful in nature—in life. Flowers were to her God's thoughts in bloom, and children an inspiration and delight. Many a needy child has been made happy by the garments she made, although unconscious of the source from which they came, as she never wanted her virtues paraded to the world. There are now unfinished garments for children in her home.

During the past year she had been kept much at home by illness, but her skillful hands were never idle. Giving much of her time to the work of the Red Cross, ceaselessly occupying herself with charity and the visits and correspondence of her friends.

During all her life in this community, she was identified with the best and noblest ideals.

It is not surprising that we find her name among the charter members of the W. C. T. U. and other organizations that seek to bless humanity.

These qualities which distinguished her life, remained until the end, and she leaves the record of a life well lived.

Peter Overstake, of Cambridge, Neb., arrived here last Saturday and is visiting his nephew, Henry Overstake, and wife and other relatives. He left this country 50 years ago and he says there is a great change in the country and especially in Mowrystown.

Obituary.

Grace Darling (Carlisle) Stinemetz, daughter of James and Emily (Hill Carlisle, and wife of Joseph L. Stinemetz, was born at Marshall, Ohio, March 31, 1876, graduated from the Mt. Sterling High School June 8, 1893, and became the wife of Joseph L. Stinemetz December 22, 1904, and died at the home of her mother at Marshall at 3 o'clock a. m. August 23, 1919, this being the third death in the family in 53 years.

These dates mark the important milestones in the life of Grace Carlisle, but between each two there were many interesting and pleasant experiences. The youngest of ten brothers and sisters, delicate in health in her first years and of unusual brightness, she was the favorite of the family. Always cheerful, she carried sunshine wherever she went. Uniting with the Christian Union Church in early girlhood, she was faithful in her attendance while at home.

When fourteen years old she went into the home of her sister, Nannie, Mrs. J. Minor Williams, at Mt. Sterling, that she might have the advantage of the excellent high school at that place. For some years she was in the County Auditor's Office in Hillsboro and was recognized as one of the most efficient clerical workers in the court house.

After her marriage she lived away from the county with the exception of a year spent on the Stinemetz farm. For several years her home was in Lexington, Ky. Two or three years ago her health became impaired and, while all that medical skill could devise, love suggest or money secure was done, it was in vain. For a time she would seem to regain her strength, but each time a more serious relapse would come and a few months ago it was realized that her earthly life was almost ended. Accompanied by her devoted husband she came home to her mother and sister, Carrie, where she remained until the end. Cheerful, patient, looking on the bright side and appreciating deeply the constant care and attention given her by her loved ones, she went down into the "Valley of the Shadow of Death", believing that warm welcome from her Savior and friends gone before, awaited her.

This dear one leaves to remember her bright, cheerful and hopeful outlook on life, her patient suffering and appreciation of all that was done for her—A loyal, loving and devoted husband, who gave up all business that he might give her constant care and thoughful love throughout the long painful months of waiting for release. An aged mother, three sisiters, five brothers, many relatives and a host of friends, who realize that eternal peace and freedom from pain is hers.

SEP. 26, 1919

Memoir.

Joseph G. Bell was born in Highland county, Ohio, April 16, 1868, and died at Hillsboro, Ohio, the 8th day of September, 1919 aged 51 years, 4 months and 24 days.

He came from a sturdy pioneer stock. Both his grand-fathers came to Ohio almost one century ago and reared large families which contributed largely to the pioneer development of this section of Ohio.

Joseph G. Bell was the second son of Joseph and Susannah Garman Bell and inherited a vigorous, energetic constitution. In early boyhood he evidenced a fondness for school life, and after having completed the course of instruction then offered in the public schools of the county, at the age of 15 entered a Scientific course of study at the National Normal University of Lebanon, Ohio. He was the youngest member of his class of 85 and graduated with high honors, being especially strong in mathematics.

Following his school life at Lebanon, he came back to the home county and engaged in teaching with singular success. Many successful professional and business men, in after life, have pointed to Mr. Bell as the teacher who installed in them the fundamental principles of education and inspired them to higher things in life.

After teaching for several years he engaged in the Hardware and Implement business locating in Hillsboro where he has spent his entire business life. But few men have met with better success or have been held in higher esteem by their associates and fellow townsmen.

Mr. Bell represented the best type of business man, and endeavored at all times to elevate the standard of business life. He was an active member of the Ohio Retail Hardware Dealers Association which is one of the largest and most influential business organization in the state. He served for several terms on the Executive Committee and his judgment and advice were availed of in the positions he held in this and other associations.

The close application to his own business interests, with the added strain brought about by the construction of his new store building a few years ago wore perceptibly on his vigorous and stalwart constitution, and about three years ago he received a shock from which he never fully recovered. Although able to attend to his work at the store, except at intervals, he gradually declined in strength and health until the end came on the morning of September 8th, after an illness of only three weeks.

On the 25th day of August, 1896, he was married to Miss Lelia Underwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Underwood, of Hillsboro, Ohio. This marriage was ideal. The devotion, and affection which Mr. Bell showed for his wife, who in the last few years of her life was an invalid, was most commendable. About one year ago (August 1, 1918,) the wife was called home and this sorrow hastened more rapidly the decline in health of the husband. Three children were born: Bertha and Margaret, who ministered to their father's every want during the declining months, after the mother's death, and Mary Josephine, who died at the age of eleven months, in July, 1901. Mr. Bell was a devoted husband, a kind father, whose every thought was for the happiness and welfare of his children.

Although he was not a member of any church, he was a regular attendant at the Presbyterian Church at Hillsboro, and contributed to its welfare and support. He entered actively into the fraternal and civic life of our community and has been for many year a Knight Templar and interested in the Masonic and other fraternal associations.

Joe Bell has gone to his reward. He will be missed, not only by kindred and friends, but by the business community at large. We knew him as an upright, genial, open-hearted and honest man. The world has been made better by his having lived in it, and will be poorer from his having left it.

Memoir.

Nannie Catherine Sanders, eldest daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Sanders, was born near Samantha, Highland county, Ohio, September 3, 1864, and died in Grant Hospital Columbus, Ohio, on September 12, 1919, aged 55 years and 12 days.

She was united in marriage ith George W. Naylor, October 16, 1884. To them four children were given, namely: Elmer, Mont, Glenn and Lettie, all of whom survive father and mother, the former having fallen asleep March 15, 1915.

In early life Mrs. Naylor chose the Christ as her companion, uniting with the Auburn M. E. Church, and ever remained a constant, consistent Christian. To such death has no terrors, but rather comes as a friend to loose the spirit from a body of bondage.

Having previously arranged for her funeral, she patiently awaited the will of the Heavenly Father, ready to live, or die, and being ready, she walked down throug the valley and shadow, "His presence, rod and staff comforting her." She cannot come to us, but we can go to her, by walking in the straight and narrow way.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. E. Huntington, formerly of the Highland M. E. Church, on September 15, 1919, assisted by Rev. C. W. Saltsbaugh, of New Vienna, Ohio.

Ezra Carpenter and wife, of Middletown, and Dexter Carpenter and wife, of Lyncbburg, spent Saturday night with John King and family.

CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. And Mrs. J. A. W. Spargur Observe Anniversary At Old Home Sunday.

The Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. W. Spargur was celebrated in fitting style at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beaver, at Beaver's Mill, on Sunday, October 19.

Mr. Beaver is the nephew of Mr. Spargur and he and his brother, H. D. Beaver own the mill and residence formerly owned by Mr. Spargur. The day was perfect. The mellow rays of a warm October sun fell on the red, gold and green of the autumn leaves and the tree-covered hillsides never looked more enchanting. It was in strange contrast to the same day of fifty years before which was one of falling snow and driving wind.

About forty guests assembled to wish this estimable couple continued happiness in their journey through life and many returns of their anniversary.

The long tables were loaded with the choicest food and were very artistically decorated with huge white anl yellow chrysanthemums. Golden streamers floated from the chandeliers to the table and a great gold cake with the dates 1869—1919 in white graced the center.

The meeting was a success in every detail. Rev. Webb presented the gospel truths in a most convincing and satisfactory manner to the people. Under his labors there were added 21 accessions to the church, 20 by conversion and 1 by letter. Another feature of the occasion was the excellent song service rendered by his daughter, Miss Murl, which was highly appreciated and enjoyed by all. Miss Webb is an attractive and accomplished young lady and accompanies her father on these occasions.

The heaviest rainfall that has visited this section for years fell Friday afternoon. In less than an hour the banks of Whiteoak creek were overflowing and the water the highest ever known for years.

The Baptismal services were conducted Friday afternoon about the time of the rainfall. Mr. Wm. Henry and son, Earl, a young man of about nineteen, were compelled to cross the creek on horse back in order to reach their home. While crossing a concrete bridge recently erected by Mr. Henry, the horse drifted off the bridge in the deep water below, leaving its occupants to the fate of the swift flowing currents, while the horse swam to shore, but very lucky for Mr. Henry and Earl were successful in catching hold of a cabled wire that had been placed across the creek, a short distance below the bridge, to which a flood gate had been suspended. For awhile it seemed that there was no chance of rescuing the men, as the water was so deep and the current so swift for any one to venture to them. But after some meditation some of the heroic bystanders ventured to reach the men by the aid of the submerged flood gate and suspending themselves to the cable wire, after hard fighting against the swift current for about twenty minutes, the men were rescued from what might have been a watery grave, almost exhausted.

Just as they stopped the car in front of the relatives' residence, Mr. Keever was again attacked with severe illness and was helped into the house. A few minutes later he became unconscious and died Sunday afternoon without having regained consciousness. It is believed that his severe illness was caused by his long suffering from gangrene and that the severe attack caused a hemorrage of the brain.

He retired several years ago on account of failing health, and some time ago found it necessary to have one foot amputated to stop the spread of the gangrene from which he was suffering.

94 YEARS

Ago Mrs. Ann Kirby Smith Was Born in Hillsboro

BIRTHDAY LAST SATURDAY

Celebrated By Family Dinner—Gifts and Flowers in Profusion—Romantic History

Ninety-four years ago, last Saturday, November fifteenth, a daughter was born to Dr. Jacob and Rachel Woodrow Kirby and was named Ann Woodrow Kirby. The Dr. Kirby home occupied the present site of Feibel Bros. store, his office standing in the yard.

This daughter grew to womanhood in Hillsboro, receiving her education here, and was one of the first graduates of Oakland Female Seminary, the President, Joseph McD. Matthews being one of the best and most favorably known educators of his time.

In early womanhood Ann Woodrow Kirby became the wife of Wm. Robinson Smith, a druggist of Greenfield. After their marriage they lived for two years in Springfield, Ohio, then removed to Hillsboro where Mrs. Smith still lives, Dr. Smith dying some years ago. Her sons, Kirby and Walter, and only daughter, Mrs. Lillie Quinn, live in the home with her. One son, Charles, lives in Kansas, her only grandchild, Mrs. Herbert Allan Ottewill, lives in Yunnau Fu, China, her husband being Consul General of Yunnan Province. Mrs. Ottewill has two children, a daughter and son that are very dear to Mrs. Smith.

A family dinner celebrated Mrs. Smith's ninety-fourth birthday, each dish being one of which she is particularly fond, in fact it marked the opening of a "feast week," as all of this week the food she prefers is prepared at each meal, and just as she likes to have it cooked.

Birthday letters and cards came to her from New York, Columbus, Cleveland, Dayton and other American places, also from China; choice and beautiful cut flowers and potted plants were received in such quantities that she is living in a bower of sweet flowers; many gifts for personal use and little remembrances were sent; and scores of friends called upon her.

Coming of rugges and hardy stock, on both sides of the house, living beyond ninety years became a habit in the Kirby and Woodrow families long ago. Her uncle, Moses Kirby, a twin brother to her father, lived beyond it, as did her mother. This uncle was from 1831-1835 Secretary of State and a lawyer of noted ability.

At one time Dr. Kirby, Mrs. Smith's father, and his brother owned the Gazette and Hiram Campbell, who married a cousin of Dr. Kirby's wife, edited the paper for them. By the way he was the father of the popular and long time contributor, Billie Campbell, to the Cincinnati Enquirer dying a few years ago.

Mrs. Ann Kirby Smith saw the first dray used in Hillsboro, the first coach, the first railroad train, the first auto and the first "flying machine." Has anyone else in Highland county done the same?

She is remarkably well preserved and quite rugged physically, is interested in all good things, does not speak ill of any one, keeps posted on all public matters, reads the home papers for the local news, the Daily Enquirer for national, state and political news, and also North American Review, Saturday Evening Post and other magazines and is prepared to talk upon any topic of the day. She is, and has always been a "Simon pure" democrat living up to the political faith of her mother's family—the Woodrows.

Mrs. Smith's grandfather Woodrow built a large store and residence building on the site of the Armory, later it became a tavern, The Woodrow House. She was married in this house, as her parents, on account of taking care of her grandparents, had removed to their home.

Mrs. Smith is the mother of four children all living. When seventeen years of age she united with the Presbyterian Church and it has no more loyal, faithful and Christian member than she.

In her early married life her father often took her with him to families which needed some special care and frequently she had the duty of dressing new born bobes as nurses were not known and some neighbor always took care of all cases of sickness.

The life of Mrs. Smith has been a blessing to all who have been associated with her in any way.

She is a member of the Mission-

NOVEMBER 21 19[illegible]

ary Societies of her church and of the Altruistic Association, attending a meeting Tuesday of this week.

The following stanza which she gave the writer as one she quotes each birthday shows her character:—

"I hail once more my natal day,
Still in my tenement of clay,
With many favors blest;
And He who put the structure here,
Can prop it up another year,
If He should think it best."

Death of Mrs. Mary Galliett

Mrs. Mary Galliett died at her home in Mowrystown, last Monday morning, after an illness of about two weeks. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Mowrystown Presbyterian Church conducted by Rev. Melton. Burial was made in the Mowrystown cemetery.

Mrs. Galliett, who enjoyed a very wide acquaintanceship, was a most highly esteemed lady and since suffering a stroke of paralysis some two weeks ago, which caused her death, her many friends have been anxiously hoping for news of her recovery. To them the news of her death will be a great shock.

Mrs. Galliett leaves two sons, and one daughter, Harold, of Washington D. C., and Roland and Mrs. Flossy Bennington, both of Akron.

R. R. ANDERSON

Of Buffalo, Oklahoma, Sends Message to His Friends Here—Has Read The Gazette for a Half Century.

The following very interesting letter has just been received from Dr. R. R. Anderson of Buffalo, Okla., a former Highland county resident, and who has been a constant reader of The Gazette for more than a half century. Dr. Anderson's letter is of such general interest that we are publishing it in full as followss:

Buffalo, Okla., October 23, 1919.

Messrs. Kent & King, Publishers,
Hillsboro, Ohio,

Sirs:—

Having been a constant reader of your valuable paper, The Gazette, for more than a half century, or since the days of Colonel Pike, I have become so much attached to it that doing without it has become an impossibility. While so far as I can recall, I think now that the present management are personally unknown to me but while this is true, yet I was a correspondent for your paper most of the time since it was owned and run by Dittey & Hough. Its weekly visits are anxiously looked for by every member of my family who are at home.

When I seated myself to compose a short message to my friends in old Highland, I had no idea what lines I would launch out on and am still at a loss what to write as what I might say might prove uninteresting to the majority of your readers. In speaking of my family, I will say that we are all well pleased that we came here when we did as we all have, generally speaking, been blessed with splendid health all these years and just why we have become so much attached to the country we are unable to state. The years of '16, '17 and '18 were not prosperous ones because of lack of enough moisture to make good crops, but until recently this year has been different. If help to harvest and thresh the big wheat crop had been available, our farmers would have had money to spare, but as it is if cars were available inwhich to market it we woud be flourishing nicely.

It is estimated that there was one and a half million bushels wheat threshed in this county this year besides other grains have yielded abundantly also. With this guaranteed price this wheat will be quite nice.

As I said labor has been quite a problem as farmers had to pay five and six dollars for single hands and from eight to twelve dollars for teams. Then some threshers charged as high as 22c a bushel for threshing while others threshed for as low as 16c. One man told yesterday that he charged $180 per day and averaged around 1000 bushels a day. Another said he made a run of seventy two days and cleared over $4000. So you see the poor farmer is discriminated against on evrey hand and it is my opinion that that is one of the big questions to be dealt with soon.

As to our litttle town we have been trying every possible way to get a railroad, since our town started in 1907, and now by the grace of the Santa Fe, will be connected with the main line by Holidays, so we are promised. More than half the road is now constructed and trains running regularly. Our citizens are a lively bunch and we expect within a year to have waterworks, electric lights and a sewage system. We now have the electric plant in partial operation. Land that could be bought for one to two thousand a quarter, now commands from three to four times the money. The larger portion of our county is agricultural land but we have some three or four ranches devoted to grazing consisting of several thousand acres each.

All things considered, we have splendid schools throughout this part of Oklahoma. Now for two years teachers have become so scarce that that class who have been paid starvation wages, are coming into their own. Several country schools are paying their teacherrs this year $125 per mo. None are paying less than $75. Our town teachers none less than $80, so far as my knowledge goes. We have a live and active Chamber of Commerce in our town and one who is not a contributing memebre is little thought of.

It s quite a satisfaction to learn that not a few of my farmer young friends in Old Highland are making good in the fight for preferment. Among them I call to mind Prof. W. H. Vance, Judge McBride and several former Buford boys who have attained a litttle less fame.

This should be an incentive to others, for what others have done; why not you?

In reflecting some other things not so pleasant to think upon, I have reference to how death has reaped a wonderful harvest among my former acquaintances and friends; scores and scores having passed away during the twelve years which I have been absent. There are lessons to be drawn from this fact too, but I will allow each to think this out as suits bst.

Think I will close this for the present by saying that while we have thus severed ourselves from old and loving ties and established new homes and new friends, yet we will be glad, indeed, to welcome any Highlander who may be passing this way to our health and home and may, if the good Lord so ordains, re-visit in that locality in a few years.

I remain very sincerely,
R. R. ANDERSON.

RUSSELL

(Delayed)

A most enjoyable evening was spent by many of this neighborhood Wednesday of last week with Ernest Rolish and wife at their pretty home in our town, when an oyster supper was given for the benefit of the church and with the supper and social time, the evening was delightful for all and quite a nice sum was added to the treasury.

Mrs. Chris Jonte returned last week from a visit of some days with Will Cook and family and Warren Heiler and wife, of Lima. She was accompanied by Ms. Will Stoltz, of Vienna, foster mother of Mr. Cook. A new baby girl, Elma, is the chief attraction in the Cook home at present. Mr. Cook is Navy recruiting officer at Lima, and is on his ninth year of Navy Service.

Congratulations are extended to Ora Trop and bride. The happy event which made Miss Pearl Smith, of Auburn, the bride of Ora Trop was consummated Wednesday of last week, Nov. 19. Mr. Trop is the son of Jones Trop, east of Russell, and was raised in this neighborhood. Many good wishes follow them to their home in Detroit, Mich., where Mr. Trop is in business.

Sunday's rain stopped shredding for a short time, but farmers are more than anxious to get this work done, as old winter has his nose in at the window and gave us a little nip a few days ago of what he intends to do later.

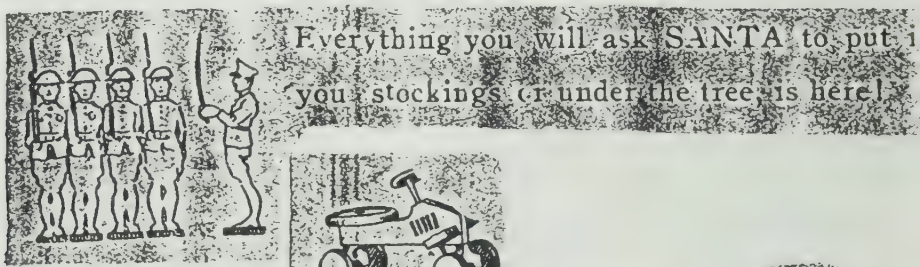
Charley Barnes and wife, who have been living near Danville, have moved to the old home east of Russell with their father.

The body of Wm. Newton, was brought from Lebanon where he had been living with his children, and buried in the Dunn's Chapel cemetery over a week ago. Veule, his wife, died a few months ago. Mr. Newton had lived in our town for many years, was a quiet gentle old man, but the book of his life is closed and his work done. He was aged 89 years. The remains were accompanied by his children and grandchildren and some friends from Lebanon.

Ray Burton and wife moved from the Ben Grunger farm east of Russell, to a farm near Dodsonville recently.

Willie Kesler and family, who have been living near Hoagland's Crossing, have moved to the farm vacated by Roy Burton.

Our town enjoyed quite a bit of excitement the Sunday the runaway train was here and enjoyed the fun of it all, as no damage was done and no one hurt.



Mrs. Elizabeth Naylor, who will be the guest of her son, Roy and family.

The funeral of Mr. J. H. Grant, a highly esteemed citizen of near Taylorsville, was held at the M. E. Church Friday, conducted by Rev. Leard, of Spring Valley. Interment in local cemetery. 12-5-19

Death of M. L. Conway

Michael L. Conway, aged 43 years, died at his home Wednesday morning. Acute peritonitus, complicated with appendicitis caused his death. He had been ill but a few days, having been stricken last Friday. Mr. Conway for a number of years had been a valued employee of the C. S. Bell Company, and was a member of the Modern Woodman of America. A wife, mother, two sisters and two brothers are left to mourn his loss. IS THERE A SANTA CLAUSE?

Classic Answer of a New York Journalist Affirming a Little Girl's Belief

One of the finest things ever written about Christmas was the editorial printed 20 years ago by the New York Sun in answer to the earnest appeal of a little New York girl to be told whether Santa Claus really exists. Its author, Frank P. Church, was an accomplished journalist and wrote much on many subjects, but his fame will rest chiefly on this beautiful setting foth of an eternal truth. With Dr. Clement Clarke Moore's "A Visit From St. Nicholas," it is one of the gerat classics of the Christmas season.

The answer to the eternal question as printed in the Sun follows:

We take pleasure iin answering at once, and thus prominently, the communication below, expressing at the same time, our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear Editor—I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Clause. Papa says: If you see it in the Sun it's so. Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Clause?

VIRGINIA O'HANLON,
115 West Ninety-first Street.

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certain as love, generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Clause! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable thi existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Clause! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not; but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all the world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God, he lives and lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay 10 times 10,000 years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."—Western Newspaper Union.

Big Phonograph Display

The windows of Bell's Hardware Store contain a very attractive display of Pathe Phonographs, placed there by Duncanson Brothers, of Lynchburg, who have been appointed Pathe Agents for Highland County. They expect during the next few weeks to afford Hillsboro residents every opportunity of witnessing an interesting demonstration of the Pathe Instrument of which Duncanson Brothers are justly proud.

These gentlement are not new to the phonograph business having had 20 years experience in this line, their first phonograph having been one of the earliest models which necessitated the use of the ear tubes. Brought By Sale Of College To Dr. H. M. Brown

ORGANIZED IN 1855

With $50,000 Capital Romantic History Connected. Dr. Larkin Bought Extra Lot

The Hillsboro Female College and grounds which have been in litigation for over twenty years, were sold last Saturday at Public Auction, Dr. H. M. Brown purchasing same for $7715. The lot just west of the main grounds was bought by Dr. J. C. Larkin for $705.

The sale recalls one of the most interesting chapters in the unusually rich educational history of Hillsboro.

The Hillsboro College was incorporated May 21, 1855 and the building finished and first occupied in 1857. It was incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000 divided into shares of $25 each and was under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, eight of the fifteen trustees being appointed by the Cincinnati Conference of this church.

The site chosen was ideal, the building itself substantial and imposing—its initial cost, including grounds and furniture, being about $50,000. For over twenty years the college was a prominent educational institution, drawing students from a number of states.

Throughout its existence the college was fortunate in securing presidents of marked ability. They were:

Rev. Jos McD Matthews, (1857-60)
Rev. W G. W Lewis, (1860-61)
Miss Jennie Warren (Mrs Dustin) (1861-63)
Rev. Allen T. Thompson, (1864-65.)
Rev. D. Copeland, (1865-72)
Rev Jos McD Matthews (1872-77)
Rev. J. F. Loyd (1877- ——)

During its later years the college suffered financial stringency, but in 1877 the buildings were repaired and an endowment of about $6500, left by Mrs. Drusilla Buntain, apparently insured a return to its former prosperity. But in spite of the efforts put forth by its supporters it could no longer be adequately financed.

For some time Prof. Gaul conducted a Normal School in the building, but finally, owing to litigation, its doors were closed as an educational institution. Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Elton then occupied the back wing as caretakers. During their occupancy the college suffered from a fire which, on account of lack of fire fighting facilities, lasted all day and into the night. The walls were uninjured, however, and the trustees collected enough insurance to repair the damage.

We find the following quotation from an old history most interesting:

"If the Hillsboro Female College be considered the lineal descendent of "Oakland Seminary" through the connection of Doctor Matthews with both, it is among the oldest in Ohio, in which a thorough education is given to girls.

As a proof that the location is eminently healthy it is only necessary to refer to its remarkable record that in the course of over forty years no death has occurred among its boarders. The site of the building is exceptionally fine, and it would seem that the citizens of Hillsborough had selected the gem among the many lovely building spots with which their town and its vicinity abound and had dedicated it to female education, wishing thus to symbolize the elevation and purity which should characterize cultured and Christian womanhood."

KILLED

In Auto Accident Near Town Last Saturday

STUDENT HAROLD MILBURN

Of Hillsboro High School Victim Of Fatal Accident—Was on Way to School

Harold Milburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Milburn, of near Belfast, was instantly killed last Friday when his automobile turned turtle near the residence of D. E. Stewart on the Marshall pike at the edge of town.

Harold was 19 years of age and a student in the Hillsboro High School. He had spent the night before with his uncle, Reece Cummings, near Marshall. Friday morning he bought his cousin to school at Marshall and had then driven rapidly toward Hillsboro. He was a member of the Hillsboro Foot Ball team, scheduled to play Washington C. H. that day and it is presumed that he wished to reach Hillsboro before school time so as to make arrangements about going to Washington.

When almost directly in front of the Stewart residence, the Ford was seen to whirl around in the road and then turn over two or three times and land in the ditch. The young victim of the accident was thrown from the car the second time it turned over and struck on his head, suffering a severe concussion of the brain. Help soon reached him, but he was unconscious and lived but a few moments. Dr. W. W. Glenn was immediately summoned, but could do nothing for the lad and the remains were taken to the Evans Undertaking parlors. Aside from the brain injury and a cut on the back of the head, there were no other injuries.

Witnesses say there was no obscruction in the road and no reason other than temporary loss of control of the car, can be assigned for the accident.

Five minutes after the accident happened a friend and schoolmate of the victim, Frank Burnett, drove up in his Ford on his way to school. The sight probably unnerved him, for when he continued his journey to school, and met a wagon and buggy near town he became a little confused and thought he did not have sufficient room to pass them and must collide with one or the other. A lady was driving the buggy, so he chose the wagon and crashed into the back end of it. The jar shattered the windshield of his car and the flying glass cut his face. However, after stopping at the hospital and having his injury dressed, he continued to school.

Funeral services for the Milburn lad were held Sunday at the Belfast Methodist church conducted by Rev. Siebert of Sinking Sping. Interment in the Belfast Cemetery. Many beautiful floral offerings from his school mates testified to the esteem in which the lad was held, and his sunny disposition had won for him the name of "Smiles."

While attending school here he had been staying at the home of Mrs. Charles Conard. Harold leaves, besides hos grief stricken parents, a mourning brother and sister.

The Ford was badly damaged, one wheel, the top of the windshield being broken, and the body and fenders crushed and bent.

Death Of Mrs. Edwards

Mrs. Gussie Edwards, formerly of Highland, but recently a resident of Akron, Ohio, died suddenly at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. Walter Hoskins, of Blanchester, last Sunday night.

Ms. Edwards had visited friends here on Saturday and seemed to be in her usual good health, but on Sunday morning she was suddenly taken ill and lived but a short time.

During her long residence at Highland, her sunny disposition and kindly spirit won for her a wide circle of friends in this county who will be greatly grieved to learn of her sudden passing. She is survived by one son, Harry, of Akron and one daughter Ethel, wife of Mr. Walter Hoskins of Blanchester, who is a salesman for the McKeehan-Hiestand Grocey Company of this city.

11-28

MOWRYSTOWN.

Mrs. Louise Forseille is visiting her son, Pete and wife, of Cincinnati.

Master Arvin Hank, of Sardinia, was a guest of Wm. Bennett and family over Sunday.

Mrs. T. C. Jordan, of Akron, is a guest at the homes of Charles Winkle and family and H. Lee Winkle and family since last Friday.

A great shock came over the community last Friday, when it was reported that Elmer Busch, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Busch, who lived south of town, just across the county line, had committed suicide by shooting himself with a gun.

He had not fully recovered from the flu which he had last winter and this summer he was overcome with heat which only made matters worse. The family had noticed for some time that he was acting rather queer, and kept a close watch on him; but last Friday he took the gun and went to the woods only a short distance from the house, and soon after he reached the woods the report of the gun was heard by the family, and immediately a search was made and the young man was found dead. He had placed the gun against his temple and fired the gun. It was supposed that he died instantly. Funeral services were held in the home last Sunday at one o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. T. G. Melton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this place. His age was 21 years and 10 months. He graduated in the Mawrystown High School only a few years ago. His remains were taken to the Sardinia cemetery for burial.

Alexander Farren, aged 50, died at his home in Sciotosville Sunday. The body was brought here Tuesday morning, and taken to the home of his father, Alex Farren on N. West St. where funeral services were held Wednesday morning. Burial was made in the Hillsboro Cemetry.
